CENSUS OF IRELAND FOR THE YEAR 1851.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY GEORGE WILLIAM FREDERICK EARL OF CARLISLE, K.G.,

LORD LIEUTENANT GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND, &c.

GENERAL REPORT.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

WE, the Commissioners appointed by the Earl of Clarendon, to take an Account of the Population of Ireland, under the provisions of the Act 13 and 14 Vic. cap. 44, beg to lay before your Excellency this, our General and concluding Report on the Irish Census of 1851—forming the Sixth Part and Tenth Volume of the series which, from time to time, we have had the honour of submitting for the consideration of the Lord Lieutenant.

Before referring to the various Tables which accompany this Report, we think it desirable to state the measures taken by us, with the sanction of the Government, in order to carry out as effectively as possible the objects contemplated by the Legislature.

Enumerators.

The Irish Census Act, section 2, provided that the Account of the Population should be taken by "such officers and men of the Police force of Dublin metro-"polis, and of the Constabulary force, together with such other competent persons "as the Lord Lieutenant should appoint to assist therein, according to such "instructions as should be given to them by the Chief or Under Secretary to the "Lord Lieutenant." The persons who were to act as enumerators having been thus defined, our attention was early given to the consideration of the proper Forms to be used in collecting the required information.

Particulars required by the Act.

The Act directed that the enumerators should take an account in writing, "of the number of persons dwelling in Ireland, and of the sex, age, and "occupation of all such persons, distinguishing the persons born in the place, or "parish and county in which they were then living, and also an account of the "number of inhabited houses and of uninhabited houses, and of houses then "building, distinguishing those parishes and places, or parts of parishes and "places, within the limits of any city or borough returning a member or members "to serve in Parliament;—and also of all such further particulars as by their "instructions the enumerators should be directed to inquire into—such parti-"culars and instructions having no reference to the religion of any person or "persons."

Additional subjects inquired into.

The Government being thus empowered to extend the Inquiries beyond the subjects specially named in the Act, the Commissioners, with the approval of the Lord Lieutenant, required the following additional particulars to be inserted in the returns:—The name; relation to the head of family; condition as to marriage; year in which married; state of education; if a child, whether attending school; whether the parties could speak Irish; the names, age, sex, relationship, and residence at the time of the Census, of all persons absent from their homes; also the names, age, sex, relationship, and occupation of the members of each family who had died since the Census taken on the 6th of June, 1841—together with the disease which caused death, and the season and year in which the death occurred. The foregoing were included on "Form A," called the Family Return.

Forms used in taking the Census.

On "Form B"—named the House and Building Return—the enumerator was required to state whether the walls were of mud, stone, or brick; whether the roof was of slates, tiles, thatch, or other materials; also the number of stories, rooms, and windows; and, for the purpose of checking the family returns, as well as to ascertain the amount of house accommodation, we required a statement of the number of distinct families living in each house. The number of persons sick in each family, on the night of the 30th of March, 1851, was also required on this form.

On "Form C," designated the Sick Return, we procured an account of the name, age, sex, relationship to head of family, occupation, disease from which suffering, and how long affected, of each person in every family who laboured under sickness on the night of Sunday, the 30th of March, 1851. We also obtained a return on "Form D" of persons afflicted with insanity, or idiocy, on that night. Special forms were prepared on which to enumerate the inmates of public institutions. These were:—"Form E," which embraced three Tables—the 1st, for the inhabitants of workhouses: the 2nd, for the sick inmates; and the 3rd, for those who had died in these institutions since the 6th of June, 1841. "Form F" containing two Tables—one for a return of the persons under treatment in hospitals; the other for the deaths in hospitals, from the 6th of June, 1841, to the 30th of March, 1851. "Form G" containing an account of persons resident in colleges and schools; and "Form H," of the military in barracks. "Form I," 1st Table, embraced persons under treatment in lunatic asylums and gaols; and "Form I," 2nd Table, those who had died in these institutions, from the 6th of June, 1841, to the 30th of March, 1851. On "Form K" were given the persons confined in prisons and bridewells on the night of the Census. On "Form L" the pupils attending schools were enumerated; on "Form O" the emigrants from Ireland from the 1st of May, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855, were returned, as given in the Appendix, pages lxxii to xcii; and on "Form P" was obtained a return of the inquests held from the 6th of June, 1841, to the 30th of March, 1851. The forms for public institutions were filled under the provisions of the Population Act, sec. 3, which required "the master or "keeper of every gaol, prison, or house of correction, workhouse, hospital, or "lunatic asylum, and every barrack-master, and every master or keeper of every "public or charitable institution, . . . determined upon by the Lord Lieutenant," to act as the enumerator of the inmates of these institutions, for the objects of the Census; and the return of emigrants was made by Constabulary enumerators, stationed at the several ports for that purpose. Copies of all the forms used by us, together with the instructions given to Superintendents and enumerators, may be seen on reference to the Appendix, pages cv to cxxxvi.

Enumeration Districts.

It having been determined that, as in the Census of 1841, the enumeration should be taken by townlands, parishes, baronies, and counties, according to the boundaries laid down on the Ordnance maps, and that each Constabulary district should, where not inconvenient, form a Census district, under the superintendence of the Sub-Inspector, or Head-Constable, in charge of it, we procured maps from the Ordnance Survey department, and furnished each officer with one for his district; having previously caused the boundaries of the townlands, sub-districts, and districts to be distinguished by different colours.

Assistance of Coast Guard.

To aid in the enumeration, the services of the Coast Guard were made available—the Comptroller-General having directed that the officers and men of that force should afford assistance on all matters relating to the Census.

Instructions given to Enumerators.

The several enumerators having been appointed, and districts assigned to them, the different forms—amounting to upwards of a million and a-half—were forwarded to them, accompanied by full instructions as to their duties.

Measures taken to remove prejudices.

We next endeavoured to prepare the public mind for the approaching inquiries, by addressing a circular letter to all persons throughout the country, whom we supposed to possess, by reason of their rank or occupation, any influence with the people—soliciting their friendly co-operation, with a view to the removal of any prejudices unfavourable to the Census. In this object we were ably assisted by the public press in Ireland—our circulars having been published in the various newspapers, and special articles inserted in them, calling general attention to the importance of giving correct information—thus making widely known the objects for which these decennial accounts of the population are taken.

Co-operation of the public press.

Mode of taking the Census.

It was arranged that, as was done in the Census of 1841, "Form A"—the Family Return—should be left at every house, to be filled by the head of each family dwelling therein,—as we conceived that this method of obtaining the required information would generally be considered less intrusive than if the form was filled by the enumerator from personal inquiry.

Accordingly, we instructed the enumerators to commence, on the 20th of March, visiting each house in their respective districts, and leave a "Form A" for every family in the house, before the night of Saturday, the 29th of March; and on Monday, the 31st of March, to commence the collection of the Returns, observing to examine them carefully, to see that the required particulars were duly stated. The House Return (B) was filled by the enumerator from personal observation and inquiry. When the collection of the returns had been nearly completed, in order to guard against omissions, we caused a notice, dated the 12th of April, 1851, to be extensively circulated; in which we earnestly solicited all individuals, or families, who were aware of their having been omitted from the general enumeration, or with whom forms had been left and not again called for, to communicate the circumstance to the nearest Police station, or direct to the Census Office, in order that immediate steps might be taken to rectify the oversight. We are happy to add, that owing to the zeal and diligence of the Superintendents, and the good feeling of all classes, we received, within a reasonable time from the 30th of March, the returns from every Constabulary district in Ireland complete, with only very few exceptions, in which the parties at first refused to fill the Forms. In these cases a remonstrance from us had the desired effect of procuring the returns, so that in no instance had we to resort to the compulsory powers given in the 6th section of the Act, in order to obtain the necessary information.

Success of the Enumeration.

Immediately, upon the receipt of the returns from the several districts, we commenced the compilation of the Abstract required by section 9 of the Census Act to "be laid before both Houses of Parliament, within twelve months after the day on which the said account shall be taken."

CENSUS PUBLICATIONS.

In compliance with this requirement, as well as in pursuance of an order of the House of Commons, dated 23rd July, 1851, we were enabled on the 4th of August, 1851, or within little more than four months from the receipt of the returns, to submit to the Lord Lieutenant a comparative "Abstract of the Census of Ireland, taken in the years 1841 and 1851," showing by provinces, counties, and towns, the number of houses, families, and persons, at each of these periods, and the increase or decrease of the houses and population in 1851.

First Abstract, published 4th of August, 1851.

The preparation of tables showing the results of the Census by townlands, forming Part I. of our publications, was then resolved upon; and being aware of the deep interest and anxiety expressed by the public for early and detailed information, we determined to publish each county as soon as it could be compiled, instead of waiting until the whole of this part was printed. Accordingly, the first county—Carlow—was presented to the Lord Lieutenant, under date "15th March, 1852;" and the last—Tyrone—on the 30th of November of the same year. This portion of the work gives, for every townland—of which there are 66,700 in Ireland—the area, population, and houses—distinguishing the inhabited, uninhabited, and those building, in 1841 and in 1851; together with the poor law valuation in the latter year—the townlands being arranged by parishes and baronies. Similar information is also given as regards electoral divisions and poor law unions. In order to insure accuracy in the area, and in the spelling of the names of the townlands, each county, previous to publication, was examined as to these particulars, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Phœnix Park.

Part I.—The Townland Census.

By directions of the Government, we were (in connexion with the Census,) authorized to collect the Agricultural Statistics of Ireland for 1851, in continuation of similar inquiries commenced in 1847, under the auspices of the Earl of Clarendon, by Colonel Larcom, R.E., and afterwards so ably conducted by him in 1848, 1849, and 1850. The Report and Tables relating to these statistics formed Part II. of the Census of 1851; and contained abstracts showing, by baronies and poor law unions, the number of holdings in nine classes according to the area of the farms, the acreage under crops, and the quantity of live stock on each class of holdings; also the estimated average produce of the holdings, and the value of the stock, together with sundry miscellaneous tables bearing upon the rural economy of Ireland.

Part II.—The Agricultural Statistics for 1851.

The Agricultural Statistics for the year 1852, were also, by directions of the Lord Lieutenant, collected and compiled under our superintendence.

The Agricultural Statistics for 1852.

Our next volume, Part III., was published on the 30th of March, 1854, and gave an account of the "Status of Disease" in Ireland. It contained the results of the first attempt to ascertain on a single day of the year, the entire number of persons in this country suffering from sickness, and the diseases of a temporary or permanent nature by which they were affected. From this Report may now be known the numbers of the deaf and dumb; of the blind; of the lunatic and idiotic; of the lame and decrepit; and of the sick in workhouses, hospitals, prisons, and asylums—together with the diseases under which those who were returned to us as sick were labouring on the night of the 30th of March, 1851. A nosological chart of diseases is also given, with their synonymes, popular and local names, and Irish terms.

Part III.—Report on the Status of Disease.

Following this was our Report on Ages and Education, forming Part IV. of the work. It contained the number and ages of the people by provinces, counties, baronies, and towns; and the number, ages, and proportion per cent. of those who could read and write, read only, and who could neither read nor write, in 1841 and 1851; also the number of schools, and of pupils attending them, together with a Table showing by counties the number of the Irish speaking population.

Part V.—Report on Tables of Deaths.

Part V., Volumes I. and II., published simultaneously with this Report, has reference to the Deaths of the people, from 1841 to 1851, and gives an account of their number, causes, &c., so far as the same was ascertained from the answers of the people themselves on "Form A"; the head of each family having been requested to afford the information, either by filling the form himself, or enabling the enumerator to do so; and also from the records of Workhouses, Hospitals, Prisons, and all other public institutions. We here beg to observe, that the want of a general measure for the Registration of Births, Marriages, and Deaths was greatly felt in connexion with the Census Inquiries, and rendered it necessary to adopt this imperfect mode of ascertaining the diseases and mortality of the people,—a want which we trust the legislature will soon supply, as this country is now the only part of the United Kingdom in which the births, marriages, and deaths of the people are not systematically recorded. In the United States it was sought to remedy this defect, by inquiries, as was done in Ireland, in 1841 and 1851, and the result, as given in the American Census Report for 1850, page 39, is stated to be that "the tables of the Census, which undertake "to give the total number of births, marriages, and deaths, in the year preceding "the 1st of June, 1850, can be said to be of but very little value. Nothing short "of a registration system in the States, will give these data with even approximate "truth."

Table of Cosmical Phenomena, &c., &c.

That Part of the Census also contains a Table of Cosmical Phenomena, Epizootics, Famines, and Pestilences, in Ireland, which has been compiled under the more immediate care of the Assistant-Commissioner, who, in his laborious research, has been ably assisted in all matters relating to the Irish language, by Dr. O'Donovan and Mr. Eugene Curry, M.R.I.A., the eminent Irish scholars,—whose extensive acquaintance with ancient Irish manuscripts and records, made their services peculiarly valuable in the compilation of the early portion of this Table —which also embraces an account of remarkable Meteorological and other phenomena, extracted from very numerous and varied authorities; and extends from the earliest records to the year 1851.

Part VI.—General Report.

The present volume of our publications (Part VI.) has reference to the Area of the country; its Population; Habitations, and House Accommodation; its Families, and their Pursuits; also the Occupations, and Degrees of Education of the People. These are given for each parish, in rural and civic districts, by baronies and counties. The Inmates of Public Institutions, their Pursuits, and Degrees of Education are also given; whilst separate Tables at the end of each county show the several classes of houses and house-accommodation; the condition of the people as to Marriage; the Irish-speaking population, by Ages; and the Occupations of the people.

Parliamentary Boroughs.

The particulars relating to the Parliamentary Boroughs are given in a separate Table, pp. 638 to 645; and following these are sundry miscellaneous Abstracts which, it is hoped, will afford useful information on the subjects they embrace.

We now proceed with our remarks on the general condition of the Irish population; in doing which we shall refer to each subject in the order in which it appears in the Tables.

Territorial Divisions.

The territorial divisions of the country first claim observation. We have used the same boundaries as those given in the Census Report of 1841; these are Provinces, Counties, Baronies, Parishes, and Towns. The Provinces enable us to contrast in large portions, one section of the country with another; the Counties afford means of closer comparison; and following these are the Baronies and Parishes—thus enabling the comparison to be carried from the large to the smaller divisions of the country.

The boundaries taken for the Counties, Baronies, and Parishes, are those marked on the Maps of the Ordnance Survey; the municipal boundaries have been adopted for Cities and Corporate Towns, except in the case of Belfast, which had extended itself much beyond the municipal boundary in 1841, and was then, as well as now, considered of so much importance, that separate Tables were compiled for it, showing the population both within and without the municipal boundary. As regards the extent of towns not having their boundaries legally defined, the same area has been used as was assigned to them in 1841

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

For those towns which appear for the first time in the Tables, we have had areas computed from the Ordnance maps, of which tracings have been kept for reference. The word town, in the Tables, has been used to denote a collection of twenty houses, and upwards, as in the Census of 1841. We have also observed the distinction of rural and civic districts then used, the latter including all towns having 2,000 inhabitants, and upwards, exclusive of Workhouses.

ECONOMIC DIVISION OF THE SURFACE.

Relative extent and character, &c., of the Provinces.

From the preceding Table it appears that of the four provinces, Munster contains the largest proportion (29·15 per cent.) of the entire surface of Ireland; next in extent is Ulster, which covers 26·31 per cent.; Leinster is third in order, containing 23·43 per cent.; Connaught is the smallest, including 21·11 per cent. of the whole area, whilst at the same time it has the least proportion of arable, and the greatest of uncultivated land; it has also—with the exception of Ulster, which it nearly equals—the largest proportion of water. Munster has the largest comparative extent of plantations, the ratio being—Munster, 34; Leinster, 33·38; Ulster, 19·22; and Connaught, 13·40 acres in every 100 of the total number of acres of plantations in Ireland. Leinster has a very small surface covered with water, compared with the other provinces; the proportions to every 100 acres of the entire area being—Ulster, 34·06; Connaught, 33·72; Munster, 23·98; and Leinster, only 8·24; the last mentioned not containing any large lakes, or loughs, similar to the other three: thus, Ulster is remarkable for Loughs Neagh and Erne; Connaught, for Loughs Corrib and Mask, and also for many smaller lakes amidst its wild and beautiful mountain scenery; Munster, for the celebrated Lakes of Killarney, Lough Derg, the river Shannon, and other lakes and rivers of lesser size and note. Of the proportion under towns, the largest amount falls to Leinster, which contains 41·04 per cent. of the total area under the civic districts, Munster has 31·23; Ulster, 19·34; and Connaught, only 8·39 per cent. Of the total arable land in the several counties, Cork has the greatest proportion—9·36 per cent.; and Louth, the least—1·14 per cent; these counties respectively being also the largest and smallest in Ireland. The counties which contain the highest relative amount of their extent uncultivated are—Mayo, 12·95 per cent.; Galway, 11·67; Kerry, 10·43; Donegal, 9·38; and Cork, 8·14 per cent.; these five counties containing together 52·57 per cent., or more than one-half of the total area of uncultivated land in Ireland. The counties having the least proportion of uncultivated land are—Dublin, 0·31 per cent.; Carlow, 0·38; Monaghan, 0·43 per cent.;

and Meath, 0·49 per cent.; making together, but 1·61 per cent. of the entire waste land in the country. Cork contains 10·57 per cent. of the plantations of Ireland; Tipperary, 7·26; Waterford, 6·46; Galway, 6·31; and Wicklow, 5·81 per cent.; Carlow, Longford, Leitrim, Armagh, Louth, Monaghan, and Londonderry, taken together, have only 9·30 per cent. of their surface under plantations. The area stated as being under towns, includes those only which have 2,000 inhabitants and upwards.

The counties of Dublin, Down, Cork, and Galway, contain the largest proportion under towns in their respective provinces; Leitrim is the only county in Ireland which has not a town containing 2,000 inhabitants; this was also the case in 1841. Of the whole area covered by water, the largest proportion, 14·26 per cent., is found in the county of Galway; Clare has more than one-tenth (10·76 per cent.) of the entire surface under water; Mayo, 9·03 per cent.; and Antrim, 8·44 per cent.; the other counties vary from 7·41 per cent., in Fermanagh, to ·06 per cent., in Dublin and Queen's Counties.

ECONOMIC DIVISION OF THE SURFACE.

On comparing the division of the surface of Ireland in 1841, with 1851, it appears that in 1841 there was 64·7 per cent. of the entire area occupied by arable land; and in 1851, 71·1 per cent.; there has thus been an increase of the arable land of 6·4 per cent. This speaks favourably for the industry of the people, notwithstanding the great diminution of the population between the two periods. We should here state, that in 1841 the areas of the arable and uncultivated land, of the towns and the water, were computed from the maps of the Ordnance Survey; in 1851 they were taken from the Agricultural Statistics for that year.

Increase in Arable Land.

The proportion under "plantations," in Table III., is given for both periods from returns obtained through the Constabulary from the landowners and occupiers, and will, therefore, admit of a fair comparison; but, as regards the "uncultivated land," it will give a better criterion of the changes in its extent to take the returns made by the enumerators of Agricultural Statistics for the four last years, and compare them with each other. The following figures show the amount returned for each of the provinces:—

Uncultivated Land.

TOTAL,	5,209,492	5,034,074	4,829,983	4,851,793

The "uncultivated" land referred to in the tables includes bog and waste, whilst the "arable" contains the total extent under crops, and grass, and fallow, added together to admit of comparison with 1841. It is very difficult to ascertain the exact surface under uncultivated or unprofitable land in a country, especially where there are large tracts of mountains which, though unenclosed, are used for grazing, but which, to the ordinary observer, appear as unreclaimed and of little value. These figures, however, being the results of actual observation and inquiries by the constabulary enumerators, who year by year traverse the country to obtain the information, may be considered as a near approach to accuracy; and when it is considered that the same enumerators do not collect the Agricultural Statistics in the same locality each year, being liable to transfer from one district to another, the returns bear testimony to the satisfactory manner in which the Constabulary have performed their duty.

The decrease in the proportion of uncultivated land gives some criterion of the extent of the reclamation of waste surface since 1841; and it is very gratifying to observe the progress made in the conversion of waste into arable land, more especially in some of the mountainous districts of the country. Thus, in 1841, Donegal, Kerry, Mayo, Galway, and Wicklow, had the largest proportion of uncultivated land to the entire area of each: in 1851, this proportion, though still high, was considerably reduced, Donegal having had 24·9 per cent.; Kerry, 17·0 per cent.; Mayo, 10·9 per cent.; Galway, 7·8 per cent., and Wicklow, 10·7 per cent., of their area converted from waste into profitable surface during the previous ten years.

Plantations.

The entire area under plantations would appear to have decreased by 0·33 per cent. between 1841 and 1851. The only counties which show an increase in the extent under plantations are Clare, Kerry, and Leitrim, and this increase is very small.

DENSITY OF POPULATION.

The number of the rural population to the square mile of arable land, also to the square mile of the entire area in 1841 and 1851, is given by counties in Table IV. The alterations in the total area of the counties between 1841 and 1851, as given in this table, have been caused by some of the towns, which were included in the Rural districts in 1841, having been placed in the Civic in 1851, and by towns which were Civic in 1851 having been included in the Rural districts in 1841,—owing to the changes in the number of inhabitants of such towns above or below 2,000.

All towns having 2,000 inhabitants and upwards, exclusive of Workhouses and other Public Institutions, are omitted from the foregoing table. Considering the diminution in the number to the square mile, the increase in the extent of arable land of 2,091·06 square miles between 1841 and 1851, affords a cheering prospect for the permanent employment of the labouring classes, and the steady progress of agriculture in Ireland. Tables III. and IV. show the provinces and counties in which this increase has taken place, and also its extent. DENSITY OF POPULATION.

We now beg to call attention to the extraordinary decrease in the rural population, which resulted from the famine and emigration of 1845 and following years. In the whole of Ireland there has been a general diminution of the rural population of fifty-three persons to the square mile of the entire area; and of one hundred and four to the square mile of arable land. The decrease in the province of Connaught was so high as sixty persons to the square mile of the entire area, and one hundred and forty-five to the square mile of arable land; in Munster, the decrease was, to the entire area, fifty-seven persons, and to the arable land, one hundred and fourteen to the square mile. Ulster decreased at the rate of forty-eight to the square mile of the total area, and one hundred and twenty-six to the square mile of arable land; and the province of Leinster decreased by forty-five persons for every square mile of its general area, and by fifty-eight for the square mile of arable land. In some of the counties, the proportionate decrease is very high, partly caused by the increase in arable land, but principally by the diminution in the numbers of the people. Thus, the rural population of the county Donegal was less by 241 to the square mile in 1851 than in 1841, whilst, according to the returns received, the extent of arable land increased from 614·36 square miles, in 1841, to 1,083·28 square miles in 1851. In Mayo, the rural population diminished from 475 to the square mile of arable land, in 1841, to 255 in 1851; whilst the arable land increased by 235·41 square miles. In Kerry, the population decreased from 416 to 216, or 200 to the square mile of arable land, the arable land having increased by 315·39 square miles. The counties which show a decrease in the rural population of less than 50 persons to the square mile were Kildare, 32; Wexford, 36; and Meath, 44. The counties which show a decrease of 50, and under 100, in this particular, were Louth, 50; Kilkenny, 51; Westmeath, 53; King's and Waterford, each 59: Down, 60; Antrim, 74; Dublin, 76; Roscommon, 77; Queen's, 78; Carlow, 79; Tipperary, 81; Armagh, 94; and Wicklow, 96. The remaining counties varied in the rate of decrease in the rural population from 104 to 241 persons to the square mile of arable land. Decrease of Rural Population.

The towns whose population was treated as civic in 1841, but which have been, owing to the diminution of their inhabitants, under the number of 2,000, placed in the rural districts in 1851, were— Civic Districts.

These changes should be taken into account in the consideration of the tables. Population to the square mile.

The number of the entire population to the square mile in 1841 and 1851 is given by counties in Table V., page xiv., which will, perhaps, show more forcibly than the preceding tables the extent of the diminution of the people. Both the civic and rural population are included in the computations. On the entire area of Ireland there has been a decrease of forty-nine persons to every square mile.

* The increase in the united population of the County and City of Dublin is equal to 91 persons to the square mile.

Decrease of Population to the square mile.

All the counties have decreased in population, except Dublin, which shows an increase of 91 persons to the square mile. Of the provinces—Connaught showed the largest decrease, having diminished by 60 persons to the square mile. The decreased numbers for the other provinces are—Munster, 57; Ulster, 44; and Leinster, 39 persons to the square mile. The greatest diminution in the numbers to the square mile, appears to have taken place in the counties of Monaghan, 117; Cavan, 93; Roscommon, 84; Longford, 78; Sligo, 73; Cork, 71; Armagh, 70; and Leitrim, 70. The least diminution was in the county of Antrim, which lost but 7 to the square mile, between 1841 and 1851. Donegal ranks next to Antrim in this respect; it lost 22 persons to the square mile; Wexford, 24; Kildare, 29; Kerry, 30; Down and Wicklow, 34 each; Londonderry, 37; and Westmeath, 42. The remaining counties exhibit decreases ranging from 45 to 65 for every square mile.

NUMBER OF THE INHABITANTS.

Having referred to the territorial divisions of the country, and compared the number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1841 and 1851, we now present Table VI., showing the actual number of inhabitants in the country in 1841 and 1851, distinguishing the rural from the civic districts, and exhibiting the rate per cent. of increase or decrease of population between these periods. In our Report on Ages and Education (Part IV.) we have already published tables giving the ages of the people classified by counties, baronies, and large towns, and have alluded generally to the causes which led to the great diminution of the Irish population between 1841 and 1851, of which emigration continues to diminish it still further,—even to the present time.

The movements of a population in times of calamity are governed by a natural law: if plague exists in the towns, the inhabitants, to escape its ravages, fly to the country; if famine visits the country, to supply their wants the rural population flock to the towns; (the large rate of increase, in 1851, in the cities and large towns may be thus, in some degree, accounted for), and if both famine and pestilence come upon the land, then emigration is the only way of escape which presents itself.

The numerical decrease of the inhabitants between 1841 and 1851, amounted to 1,622,739, or 19·85 per cent.; but this being merely the difference between the number of the people in 1841 and in 1851, without making any allowance for a natural and ordinary increase of population, conveys but very inadequately the effect of the visitation of famine and pestilence, with which it pleased an all-wise Providence to visit Ireland. We may, however, so far as the means at our disposal will permit, estimate the numbers which it might reasonably be expected would have been living in this country if the extraordinary number of deaths, and emigration had not lessened the population in such an unusual degree.

Unfortunately, Ireland has not been yet favoured by the legislature with a general measure for the registration of the births, marriages, and deaths of its people; and is, in this respect, an exceptional portion of the United Kingdom. We cannot, therefore, state the annual average number of births and deaths to the population; and in the absence of such a registration we conceive we can find no better data for our computations than the averages of the births and deaths which have been regularly registered in England and Wales since 1837.

Decrease of Population.

In the able Reports of Mr. Graham, the Registrar-General, these averages are carried on from year to year; and in the latest of them—the Sixteenth—we find that the births and deaths registered for a period of fifteen years in all

NUMBER OF THE INHABITANTS.

England and Wales have been at the annual rate of one birth to every thirty-one, and one death to every forty-five persons living. Applying these rates to the population of this country in 1841, and assuming that the emigration was equal to the immigration, we find that the population on the 30th of March, 1851, would have probably numbered 9,018,799 instead of 6,552,385 (see Table VII.), and that, consequently, the loss of population between 1841 and 1851 may be computed at the enormous amount of 2,466,414 persons. The population removed from us by death and emigration, belonged principally to the lower classes—among whom famine and disease, in all such calamitous visitations, ever make the greatest ravages. But, notwithstanding our sudden depopulation, we have every cause for thankfulness that years of suffering have been followed by years of prosperity; for Ireland has increased in wealth and progressed in the development of her resources; as it appears that in 1851 the extent of land under cultivation, the value of agricultural stock and crops, and the proportionate number of educated among the people, were greater than at any previous period of which we have a record. An account of the famine and pestilence, their causes and results, will be found in Vol. I. of the Report on the Tables of Deaths.

Estimated decrease of the population between 1841 and 1851.

TABLE VII.—Showing the probable Number of Inhabitants which would have been in Ireland on 30th March, 1851, had Emigration and Immigration been equal,—calculated on the Average Number of Births and Deaths in England and Wales; being at the rate of 1 Birth to 31, and 1 Death to 45 of the population.

* According to the Census of 1841. † For 7 Months. ‡ For 3 Months.

The rate of increase given in this Table is equal to 1·00 per cent. per annum, and may, we think, be considered as very nearly representing what the increase of the population of Ireland would naturally be by the excess of births over deaths. The rate of increase between 1831 and 1841, according to the Census Report of 1841, page viii, was 0·12 per cent. per annum, but it was considered that this rate did not truly represent the increase between these years, as the Commissioners believed that the numbers returned in 1831 were greater than the real population, or at all events that any error was rather one of excess than defect, because the Census for 1831 was taken in different places at different times, extending over a considerable period; and it was understood that the enumerators considered they would be paid, and in many cases were paid, in proportion to the numbers they enumerated, the obvious tendency of which would be to augment the total numbers. For the same reason that the rate of increase between 1831 and 1841 was defective, the rate between 1821 and 1831 would also be erroneous: that increase was at the rate of 1·34 per cent. per annum. We cannot, therefore, test the accuracy of the rate assumed by us by the increase between either of these periods. As, however, the Census Commissioners of 1841 state, with regard to the Census of 1821, that it was the first successful occasion of enumerating the people in Ireland, and considered that the number given was "rather below than above the truth," we may take the increase between 1821 and 1841, which was at the rate of 0·92 per cent. per annum, as corroborating, in the absence of better data, the probable correctness of the supposition that the increase of the population, by the excess of births over deaths, is not so dissimilar in England and Ireland as is generally supposed.

In Table VIII. we give a comparative view of the proportion per cent. of males and females at specified ages in 1841 and 1851, by provinces, counties, and towns. It will be observed from it that the proportions living at the various ages in 1841 varied but little in amount in each county; and the same may be said of the proportions at each age in the several counties in 1851, although they differ from the proportions in 1841—from which circumstance it may be inferred that the same cause has been in operation throughout the country, at both periods, in influencing the individual when stating his or her age.

Division of Persons.

As in the Census Tables of 1841, we have divided the number of persons in each family into "Heads of Families and their Children," "Visitors," and "Servants."

Heads of Families and their Children.

The proportion of these several classes, according to the returns received in 1841 and 1851, are given in Table IX., from which we find (as shown in Table X.) that in all Ireland there was an increase of 0·3 per cent. of males, and 3·4 per cent. of females, in 1851, in the proportionate numbers representing the Heads of Families and their Children. In the province of Leinster there was an increase of 1·5 per cent. of males, and 3·9 of females; and in Ulster of 1 per cent. males, and 3·6 per cent. of females in these proportions; whilst in Munster, and also in Connaught, there was a slight decrease of males in each of 0·8 per cent. Under this division females, however, increased 3·3 per cent. in Munster, and 2·5 per cent. in Connaught.

In the several counties and towns the proportion which the number of males bears among the Heads of Families and their Children to the total male population, varied when compared with 1841:—the proportion of females in this class have increased in every county, city, and large town.

The counties which exhibited a decrease in 1851 in the proportionate number of males, in the class of—"Heads of Families and their Children," were King's (0·9 DIVISION OF PERSONS. per cent.), Longford (0·3 per cent.), Meath (0·1 per cent), Westmeath (0·4 per cent.), Clare (0·2 per cent.), Cork (2·8 per cent.), Kerry, (1·4 per cent), Waterford (0·9 per cent.), Cavan (0·4 per cent.), Fermanagh (0·5 per cent.), Monaghan (0·8 per cent.), Galway and Leitrim (each 0·7 per cent.), Mayo (0·8 per cent.), and Roscommon (1·1 per cent.). Under this head, the cities and large towns which showed a decrease were Drogheda (2·3 per cent.), Limerick city (2·5 per cent.), and Galway town (1·9 per cent.).

Visitors.

The proportion per cent. of male "Visitors" to the male population has decreased in every county and large town, with the exception of Drogheda, in which the increase is 0·1 per cent., and Limerick city, in which it is 0·3 per cent.; there was not any increase in the proportion of Female Visitors.

Servants.

The proportion of Male Servants to the population of the same sex increased in every county, city, and large town, with the exception of the city of Waterford, in which there was a decrease under this head of 0·8 per cent. The proportionate number of Female Servants to the female population decreased in the following counties and towns:—Limerick county, 0·8 per cent.; Drogheda town, 0·5 per cent.; Dublin city, 0·3 per cent.; Donegal, Down, and the city of Kilkenny, each 0·2 per cent.; and Cavan and Tipperary, 0·1 per cent. each. The rural districts of Ireland contain a larger proportion of the population under the class of "Heads of Families and their Children" than the civic districts. A larger proportion of Visitors was found in the civic than the rural; and a greater proportion of male servants is found in the rural, and of female servants in the civic districts. The number of males in Ireland to every 100 persons in 1841 was 49·2; in 1851 it was 48·7. The number of females to every 100 persons in 1841 was 50·8; and in 1851 it was 51·3; there was. therefore, a decrease of 0·5 per cent. in the proportionate number of males, and a corresponding increase in the proportionate number of females.

The changes which took place between 1841 and 1851 in the proportions to the population of "Heads of Families and their Children," of "Visitors and Servants," and also the variations in the proportion of males and females to the population, are given in Table X., by provinces, counties, and towns.

Inmates of Public Institutions.

With regard to the class Visitors, it is to be observed that the inmates of public institutions have been placed under that head in the Tables for 1851, whilst in 1841 they were included in the general population. These institutions having greatly increased in number since 1841, by the erection of Union Workhouses, Prisons, Lunatic Asylums, &c., it has been considered necessary to enumerate their inmates separately; and in order to prevent any error in comparing the proportionate number of visitors in 1841 with that class in 1851, the inmates of public establishments have been excluded from the calculations. The number and proportion per cent. to the population of their inmates are given in Table XI., page xxi, from which it will be seen that, in all Ireland, 4·3 per cent. of the population were maintained in them in 1851. In the provinces, Munster had 7·8 per cent., Connaught 4·3 per cent., Leinster 3·8 per cent., and Ulster 1·4 per cent. of their inhabitants in these institutions. In the city of Kilkenny and town of Galway the proportion per cent. was unduly large, owing to the Workhouses and other public establishments being built within the boundaries of these towns. The county of Kerry showed the largest proportion of inmates of these institutions, so many as 11·6 per cent. of the population being within them when the enumeration was made in March, 1851. In Clare there was 9·4 per cent., in Limerick city 8·7 per cent., and in Tipperary 8·0 per cent. The county of Down had the least proportion of any of the counties, being only equal to 0·6 per cent. Antrim had but 1, and Donegal 1·1 per cent. The circumstances of the population of Public Institutions have been referred to in Parts III. and V. of our Reports.

Houses.

The houses of a country are an index to the condition of its inhabitants, and a similar classification of them to that made by the Census Commissioners, in 1841 (and now adopted by us), is necessary in order to arrive at a just conception of the kind of house-accommodation possessed by the people. "For some years "past," says Dr. Southwood Smith, "there has been in the public mind a "growing conviction that the physical condition of the working classes is mainly "dependent on the state of their dwellings. The conviction has become equally "strong that whatever improvement is effected in the physical condition of the "people, is conducive to a corresponding elevation of their intellectual, moral, "and social state."* In this country, as in England, this conviction has been felt, and, in some cases, acted upon; in the city of Dublin "model lodging-houses" have been erected, and the common lodging-houses of the lower classes placed under the surveillance of inspectors, and measures taken to render them cleanly and well-ordered in their sanitary arrangements. The classification of houses adopted in 1841 and in 1851, was as follows:—"In the lowest, or "fourth class, were comprised all mud cabins having only one room; in the "third, a better description of cottage, still built of mud, but varying from two "to four rooms and windows; in the second, a good farm-house, or in towns, a "house in a small street, having from five to nine rooms and windows; and in "the first, all houses of a better description than the preceding classes."

The number of houses in 1841 and 1851, according to this classification, was as follows:—

Inhabited.	Houses. In 1841.	Houses. In 1851.	Difference between 1841 and 1851. Increase in 1851.	Difference between 1841 and 1851. Decrease in 1851.
1st class,	40,080	50,164	10,084	—
2nd class,	264,184	318,758	54,574	—
3rd class,	533,297	541,712	8,415	—
4th class,	491,278	135,589	—	355,689
Total inhabited,	1,328,839	1,046,223	—	282,616
Uninhabited, Built,	52,208	65,263	13,055	—
Uninhabited, Building,	3,313	1,868	—	1,445
General Total,	1,384,360	1,113,354	Net decrease of Houses in 1851,	271,006

It thus appears that between 1841 and 1851, 355,689 fourth-class houses, chiefly mud cabins, have disappeared from Ireland; and that while there has been this decrease in the fourth class, there has been an increase in the number of 10,084 habitations in the first class; of 54,574 in the second class, comprising in the country, good farm-houses; and of 8,415 in the third class, or houses containing from two to four rooms, but principally built of mud.

The decrease in the total number of the fourth-class houses between 1841 and 1851, was equal to so much as 72 per cent. The diminution which occurred in this class of houses is shown in the following summary for each county and province, arranged in the order of the greatest proportionate decrease:—

SUMMARY showing the Number of 4TH CLASS INHABITED HOUSES in 1841 and 1851, and the number and rate per cent. of decrease in same between these years.

Houses.

It appears that in all Ireland there has been a decrease between 1841 and 1851, in the proportion of fourth-class houses (or cabins having only one room) to the total number of houses of twenty-four in every 100. In the provinces the greatest decrease, 31·2 per cent., took place in Connaught; next in order were Munster, 26·2 per cent., Ulster, 23·7 per cent., and Leinster, 14·4 per cent. In the counties the greatest proportionate diminution in the number of cabins to the total number of inhabited houses took place in Mayo, which shows 38·3 per cent. less in 1851 than in 1841. Clare has decreased 34·6 per cent., Donegal 32·7, Cork 30·9, and Galway 30·4 per cent.; all the other counties likewise show a diminution in the proportion of fourth-class houses, ranging from 28·9 per cent. in Sligo to 10·5 per cent. in Kildare; the cities and towns also show a decrease in the proportion of this class of habitations, there having been a diminution of 0·6 per cent. in Dublin, of 16·3 in Drogheda, 19·6 in Kilkenny, 1·6 in Cork, 7·7 in Limerick, 2·7 in Waterford, 0·2 in Belfast, 17·0 in Carrickfergus, and 10·1 per cent. in Galway. The uninhabited houses have increased in the proportion they bear to the total number of houses in 1851, compared with 1841, in all the counties except Antrim and Londonderry, which decreased 0·1 per cent. and 0·2 per cent. respectively. As regards the cities and towns, Drogheda has decreased 1·0 per cent., Cork 3·1 per cent., Belfast, 7·3 per cent., and Galway 5·4 per cent. in the relative number of their uninhabited houses. The net decrease in the total number of houses inhabited and uninhabited was 271,006, notwithstanding which there was an increase in uninhabited houses of 13,055, and a decrease in the number of houses in course of erection of 1,445, evidencing that there were more houses by a considerable number then standing, than the wants of the diminished population required.

The proportion per cent. of the several classes to the total number of houses in 1841 and 1851 is given in Table XII., at foot of which is a summary showing the proportion per cent. of the several classes of houses in each of the provinces in 1841 and 1851, distinguishing the rural and civic districts; from this we find that in the rural districts in 1851, 55·9 per cent. of the houses were of the third class, 27 per cent. of the second class, 14·6 per cent. of the fourth class, and 2·5 per cent. of the first class; whilst in the civic districts there was 50·8 per cent. in the second class, 27 3 per cent. in the third class; 18·7 per cent. in the first class, and only 3·2 per cent. in the fourth class; and that of the proportion of uninhabited houses, the rural districts show 5·1 per cent. "built," and 0·1 per cent. only "building;" whilst, in the civic districts, the proportions of uninhabited houses are nearly doubled, the rate to the total number of houses being 10·1 per cent. "built," and 0·4 per cent. "building."

Houses building.

The difference between the proportions per cent. of the several classes of houses to the total number of houses in 1841 and 1851 are given in Table XIII. Although there was a considerable diminution in the number of houses "building" in 1851 compared with the returns for 1841, it does not appear that there was any remarkable decrease in the proportion to the population of those who, from their occupations, are engaged in the erection of houses, as may be seen from the following comparative statement:—

House Accommodation.

We now come to the consideration of the number of families occupying the several classes of houses, as illustrating the amount of house-accommodation enjoyed by the people.

The rule acted upon in the classification of families was, that "either one person living on his or her own means of support, or several persons united under one head, and having a common means of support," should be considered a family. In 1851 there were 1,204,319 families in Ireland, having an average number of 5·44 persons to each. The following summary shows the

From the foregoing it appears that in all Ireland the largest average number of families resides in first and second class, and the least average in third and fourth class houses; that in Leinster, (in which is included the Metropolis) the average is 2·03 families to each first-class house, whilst in Munster it is 1·59, in Ulster 1·19, and in Connaught 1·41. In the second-class houses Leinster and Munster have an equal average number, viz.:—1·29 families to each house, and rate higher than Connaught, which has 1·15, or Ulster, which has 1·13 families living in each second-class house. The average number of families residing in third and fourth class houses is the same in Leinster, Ulster, and Munster, which have respectively 1·09, 1·05, and 1·13 families residing in these two classes. Connaught has, on an average, 1·07 families dwelling in third, and 1·06 in fourth class houses. Number of Families occupying the several Classes of Houses.

The proportion of 100 families residing in each class of houses in 1841 and 1851, and the average number of persons to a family, are given in Table XIV., from which it will be seen that in all Ireland in 1851, 48·6 per cent. of the families were living in third-class houses; 32·1 per cent. in second-class houses; 12·2 per cent. in fourth class; and 7·1 per cent. in first class; and that separating the Rural from the Civic districts, 51·4 per cent. of the families in the Civic resided in second class, and 55·5 per cent. in the Rural district resided in third-class houses; and that while only 2·7 per cent. of the families in the Rural districts resided in first-class houses, 24·7 per cent. lived in this class in the Civic. The variations which took place in the proportion per cent. of families residing in each class of houses are shown in Table XV., page xxix, from which it will be seen that in all Ireland there has been a large decrease (22·9 per cent.) in the proportion of families residing in fourth-class houses in 1851 compared with 1841; and that there is an increase in the proportion per cent. living in the other classes of 10·3 per cent. in the second class; 10·1 per cent. in the third class; and 2·5 per cent. in the first class. It is now to be seen whether the transfer of the families from the fourth to a better class of houses has given them improved accommodation, as it does not follow that, because a greater proportion of the families reside in first-class houses, they enjoy better house accommodation than those who reside in second, third, or fourth class; on the contrary, the rooms of a first-class house may be so crowded as to render the families living in them worse in point of actual comfort and cleanliness than those living in fourth-class houses in the country. In Table XVI. is shown the number of families residing in first, second, third, and fourth class houses, in the Rural and the Civic districts of Ireland, from which it will be seen that the largest number of families living in one house in the Civic districts was forty-six, and in the Rural twenty-five; the houses which contained this large number of families were both first class, but they probably afforded less accommodation to each of them, than if they had been living as separate families, each in a fourth-class house, or mud cabin, with one room; on this supposition a division of the families, according to the house-accommodation they enjoyed, has been made, as in 1841, in which it is assumed that one family only residing in a first-class house enjoys first-class accommodation; one family living in a second class, and two or three families in a first-class house, second-class accommodation; one family in a third class, four or five in a first, and two or three in a second,—third-class accommodation. The remainder of the families, i.e., six or more families in a first-class house, four or more in a second, two or more in a third, and all in the fourth, possess fourth-class house accommodation.

HOUSE ACCOMMODATION.

It was found from the Returns that there were 78·7 per cent. of these families, each of whom inhabited one house exclusively; 11·8 per cent. lived with a second family in the house; 3·5 per cent. with two other families; 1·8 per cent. with three other families: the remaining 4·2 per cent. having from four families upwards resident in the house with them. To elucidate the subject of house-accommodation further, we have prepared Tables XVII. and XVIII., showing the proportion of families in every 100 occupying each class of accommodation in 1841 and 1851, and the increase or decrease in the proportion between these years. In consequence of the removal of so great a number as 355,689 fourth-class houses since 1841, there is a necessary increase in the proportion of families occupying the other classes of house-accommodation in 1851; this decrease in the fourth-class house-accommodation removed 18·9 per cent. of the families into the other classes, each of which shows an increase in the proportion of 9·8 per cent. to the third class, 7·9 to the second, and 1·2 to the first. The proportion of families to 100 houses in 1841, was 111; in 1851, it was 115, but although there was an increase of four families in the proportion in the latter year, it has been shown that people were dwelling in houses affording a better class of accommodation than is shown in 1841; and this is the case even in the Civic districts, for although in them the proportion of families to 100 houses in 1851 was six more than in 1841, yet there has been a decrease of 5·7 per cent. in the proportion of families living in fourth class houses, which resulted in an increase in the other classes, equal to 2·0 per cent. in the third class, 2·9 in the second class, and 0·8 per cent. in the first class. The city of Dublin and the town of Belfast alone show an increase in the proportion of families occupying fourth class accommodation in 1851.

PURSUITS OF FAMILIES.

Having noticed the number of families, their division amongst the several classes of houses, and the house-accommodation enjoyed by them, we have now to show how these families were employed, and what were the means upon which they were dependent. The first classification of them is according to their "pursuits," as chiefly employed in agriculture, manufacture, trade, and other occupations (see Table XIX); and upon comparing the Returns of 1841 with those of 1851, it appears that for the latter period there has been, in all Ireland, a diminution of 13·5 in the proportions per cent. of families engaged in agriculture, whilst there has been an increase of 0·8 per cent. in those employed in manufactures, trades, &c., and of 12·7 per cent. in other pursuits. Munster decreased most (17·5 per cent) in the proportion of families engaged in agriculture, and increased most (3 9 per cent.) in those engaged in manufactures, trades, &c. Ulster decreased least (7·9 per cent.) in the proportion of families supported by agriculture. Under this head Leinster decreased 13·5 per cent., and Connaught, 14·4 per cent. between 1841, and 1851; in every county a decrease has also taken place, the greatest being 19·0 per cent. in Kerry, and the least 3·5 per cent. in Londonderry; a decrease has also taken place in the civic districts to the amount of 12·2 per cent. The civic district of Munster decreased 15·5 per cent. in the proportion of families employed in agriculture in it in 1851; Leinster, 10·3 per cent.; Connaught, 9·5 per cent.; and Ulster, 10·1 per cent. We have given the divisions in the County Tables, similar to those in 1841—keeping the families who are engaged in agriculture distinct from those supported by other employments; but it was the opinion of the Census Commissioners for that period that this division could hardly be considered a satisfactory one, "as agriculture "is, in fact, but the manufacture of rural produce. The trades which minister "to it and which depend upon it will constantly increase; and besides the "numbers that thus tend to amalgamate it with the other class, it must also "be considered to embrace all who. by investment or accumulation, depend on "those trades as well as directly upon itself. This number is at present con-"siderable, though imperfectly known; indeed it may be safely averred that "there are comparatively few families who are not, in some degree, dependent "on agriculture, though not making it an occupation for subsistence; so that "while it approaches to manufactures on the one hand, manufactures associate "more and more with it on the other." We therefore give here a statement showing in 1841 and 1851 the comparative proportions engaged in agriculture, and in manufactures and trade, added together for each province:—

FAMILIES ENGAGED IN	LEINSTER. Proportion per cent.		MUNSTER. Proportion per cent.		ULSTER. Proportion per cent.		CONNAUGHT. Proportion per cent.		TOTAL. Proportion per cent.

We thus perceive that the families engaged in pursuits which have not been specified, are in a larger proportion to the total number of families in 1851 than in 1841; and as this class will include independent and professional persons, the increase of 13 per cent. in 1851 may be viewed as a favourable change since 1841 of the comparative proportions in the classification of families, according to their pursuits.

In the second division, we have arranged the families according to their means, as chiefly dependent on (1) vested means, professions, &c., (2) the direction of labour, and (3) their own manual labour. In the first of these classes we find that there has been an increase of 4·4 per cent. in the proportions between 1841 and 1851; in the second, of 2·6 per cent.; and in the third, a decrease of 10·9 per cent. The civic districts show a decrease of 2·0 per cent. in the proportion of families dependent on vested means, professions, &c.; and of 29·1 per cent. in those engaged in the direction of labour—resulting in an increase of 27·5 per cent. in the relative number of families dependent on their own manual labour for support.

General Progress of the Country.

It will be seen from these Tables (XIX and XX) that there is also an increase in the class whose means were not specified, of 3·7 per cent. in the rural, and 3·6 in the civic districts Of the provinces, Munster shows an increase of 7·7 per cent. in the proportion of families of the 1st class, or those chiefly dependent on vested means, and professions, &c., ; Leinster, an increase of 3·6 per cent. in the same class ; Connaught, of 3·2 per cent. ; and Ulster, of 2·6 per cent. ; whilst in the proportion of families engaged in the direction of labour there has been an increase since 1841 of 7·7 per cent. in Ulster, and of 21·8 per cent. in Connaught ; and a decrease of 8·2 per cent. in Leinster, and 5·1 per cent. in Munster. Three of the provinces show a decrease in the proportionate number of families who were dependent on their own manual labour for subsistence. The rates of decrease were 29 per cent. in Connaught, 12·7 per cent. in Ulster, and 7·8 per cent. in Munster ; Leinster showed the very small increase of 0·1 per cent. in the relative number between 1841 and 1851 under this division of its families. The counties which showed the greatest increase in the proportion of families dependent on vested means, and professions, &c., were—Kerry, (12·9 per cent.) ; Cork, (9·5 per cent.) ; Wicklow, (9 3 per cent.) ; Limerick, (7·8 per cent.) ; Waterford, (7·7 per cent); Kildare, (7·3 per cent.); Meath, (7·3 per cent.). In this class the least increase was found to have taken place in the counties of Armagh, (0·1 per cent); Dublin, (0·1 per cent.); Monaghan, (0 6 per cent.) ; Down, (1· per cent.) ; Londonderry, (1·8 per cent.) ; and Roscommon, (1·9 per cent.). The cities and large towns show, in most cases, a decrease in the proportion of families under this division ; in Dublin the diminution was 3·8 per cent. ; in Galway, 2·3 per cent. ; in Kilkenny, 1·4 per cent. ; in Cork, 0 9 per cent. ; in Drogheda, 1·0 per cent. ; and in Limerick and Belfast—each, 0·2 per cent. The proportion of families engaged in the direction of labour increased in six counties of Ulster, five of Connaught, two of Leinster, and one of Munster ; and in families dependent on their own manual labour for support there was an increase in the relative numbers between 1841 and 1851 in two counties only—Dublin and Down. The variations between 1841 and 1851 in the proportion of families in the several counties, classified according to their pursuits and means. are shown in Table XX.

In the provinces, and in all Ireland, the decreases in the proportions of the illiterate, the families occupying fourth-class accommodation, and those dependent on their own manual labour, between 1841 and 1851, and in some of the counties (which we have taken indiscriminately) are as follows :—

		Decrease per cent. between 1841 and 1851,

In our Report on Ages and Education we stated that in this our General Report we should give a tabular statement showing that as ignorance diminishes the condition of the people improves. Having now observed upon the decrease in fourth-class houses since 1841, and the increase in the proportionate number of families who are dependent on vested means, professions, &c., for their support, we here introduce a table (XXI.) in which are given the proportions of the population who could neither read nor write ; of the families who occupied fourth-class accommodation ; and of the families who were dependent on their own manual labour for support in 1841 and in 1851. The counties are arranged in the order of their superiority in education in each of these years.

From this table it will be seen that the advancement of the population in education, in the enjoyment of better house accommodation, and in the proportion not dependent on manual labour for support, has been most satisfactory between 1841 and 1851, notwithstanding the great diminution of the people, caused by famine and emigration.

We do not affirm that these satisfactory changes are altogether owing to the decrease in the proportions who could neither read nor write, as, no doubt the diminution of the people had also its effect. The great mass of the emigrants from Ireland is composed of the poorer classes, who, being withdrawn from the population, must diminish the proportions of the illiterate, of persons occupying fourth-class house accommodation, and of those dependent on their own manual labour for support; but although the removal of the poorer classes has affected the proportions to which we refer, yet the increase in the proportion of families chiefly dependent on vested means, professions, &c., shows that property in Ireland has not failed to yield increased value, notwithstanding the great decrease in the number of the labouring population.

OCCUPATIONS OF PERSONS.

We now approach a very interesting portion of our inquiries—the occupations of the people. In framing the tables for this part of our work, the same classification was adopted as in 1841; we are, therefore, enabled to give a comparative table (XXII.), showing the number of persons in each county engaged in ministering to the wants of the population in 1841 and 1851; and also one —(Table XXIII.)—in which the number in every 100 persons so engaged is given for the same years. The reasons for the division of the occupations into the several heads of ministering to "Food," "Clothing," "Lodging," "Health," "Charity," "Justice," "Education," "Religion," &c., are thus described by the Census Commissioners in 1841:—"After the fullest consideration we found no "classification of persons less objectionable than one which, reverting to the "first elements of society, considered every individual as dependent on the mode "in which he could serve his fellows, or, in other words, as he could minister to "the physical or moral wants of others. Thus traders in or manufacturers of "food minister to hunger; of clothing, to nakedness; of lodging, &c., to exposure; "and of medicine, to sickness.

"The effect of this classification will be to exhibit the individual under a "double aspect; as, on the one hand, engaged in benefiting himself, whilst on "the other, he benefits society at large. We have found no serious reason to "regret this classification. It is very simple, and has left a smaller number of "'unclassified' than any other that we attempted. Perhaps lodging and "machinery might, with advantage, have been separated. In order, however, "that every one may possess the means of making this, or any other separation, "or any new classification, we have given for each county a numerical return of "the occupations themselves; and in this return we have stated, so far as we "knew them, the occupations even under fifteen."

OCCUPATIONS OF PERSONS.

These "occupations" are given as described by the people themselves; and each individual probably returned that employment which he considered the most conducive to his support and respectability. Many persons are engaged in more employments than one, especially among the better classes of society; and some there are who, though occupied in several ways, do not consider themselves as having any occupation in the meaning which a Census attaches to the term. As these ideas, however, are likely to continue to influence individuals at every Census, the comparative value of an occupation table will remain undisturbed; and judging from the proportions engaged in 1841 and 1851 in the various occupations as described by the parties themselves at each of those periods, it is satisfactory, on the whole, to observe how nearly alike, notwithstanding the changes in the population, the relative numbers are to each other. Thus, according to this classification, the proportion per cent ministering to Food in 1841 was 23·29; in 1851, it was 23·38, showing a difference of only ·09 per cent. between the periods. In Clothing, the difference is a decrease of 1·76 only in 1851; in Lodging, Furniture, Machinery, &c., the difference is an increase in 1851 of 0·22 per cent. In the proportions under the heads of Health, Charity, Justice, Education, Religion, and in the unclassified occupations there has been a slight increase in the proportions for 1851. Of the total number occupied in 1851, 23·38 per cent. were ministering to Food; 9·26 per cent., to Clothing; 2·23 per cent., to Lodging, Furniture, Machinery, &c.; 0·11 per cent., to Health; 0·03 per cent., to Charity; 0·41 per cent., to Justice; 0·27 per cent., to Education; 0·13 to Religion; and 7·55 per cent. were "unclassified." The largest proportion occupied in ministering to Food (27·09 per cent.) was found in Connaught, and the least (20·88 per cent.) in Leinster. There was a decrease of nearly one-half in the proportions per cent. ministering to Clothing in 1851 in the former province. In all Ireland 42·96 per cent. of the people were returned in 1841 as engaged in some occupation or profession; in 1851, the proportion increased to 43·37 per cent. The only province showing a decrease in these proportions is Connaught, which had 2·82 per cent. less occupied persons to the population in 1851.

A subdivision of the general heads into which the occupations have been divided is given in Table XXIV. by provinces, for 1841 and 1851. In this table those ministering to Food are classed as—(1) Producers, (2) Manufacturers, and (3) Traders. The first is considered as supplying the second; and the second the third class. The first is the producer of raw material for the manufacturer, who works or combines it with other material, whence it passes into the hands of the distributor or salesman. In the subdivisions under the head of "Clothing," manufacturers may be considered as the producers for the workers and makers, from whom it is passed to the traders. "Lodging, Furniture, Machinery, &c.," has been also subdivided, as in 1841, and also the "unclassified." The proportions per cent. under the several principal and sub-heads may be seen on reference to Table XXV., for each of the provinces in 1841 and 1851.

EDUCATION.

Having already reported on ages and education in Part IV. of our publications, we shall only here give a table (XXVI.) showing the proportion per cent. in 1841 and 1851 in each province, county, city, and large town in Ireland, who could read and write, who could read only, and who could neither read nor write; and also the proportions per cent. of the population five and under sixteen years of age, who were attending school in 1841 and 1851. It is hoped this table will be useful to those who may not have the special report on this subject to refer to. The actual numbers in the several degrees of education are given for every parish and town in the general county tables.

We may remark, in reference to the proportions given in this table, that it is very gratifying to observe on the whole a marked improvement in the attendance at schools in 1851, when compared with 1841, notwithstanding that in some parts of the country these proportions indicate a small diminution. In 1851 five per cent. more of the population "five and under sixteen," were at school than in 1841: and there was a decrease in the proportions who could neither read nor write of four per cent. of males, and eight per cent. of females.

In the Province of Leinster there was an increase of two per cent. in the proportion attending schools; in Munster, and Ulster of three per cent. each; and in Connaught of eight per cent. In the proportions who could read and write there was an increase of three per cent. of males, and seven per cent. of females, in Leinster; three per cent. of males, and five per cent. of females, in Munster; four per cent. of males, and seven per cent. of females, in Ulster; and four per cent. of males, and five per cent. of females, in Connaught. The proportions of those who could read only were the same in 1851 as in 1841, except in Munster and Connaught, which show an increase of one per cent. each, and in Ulster, which shows a decrease of one per cent. in the females of this class.

CONDITION AS TO MARRIAGE.

In connexion with the subject of the marriages of the people we give three tables, the first (XXVII.) showing the number of persons seventeen years old and upwards unmarried, married, and widowed, in 1841 and 1851 in every county, city, and large town in Ireland. The second table (XXVIII.) shows these numbers reduced to proportions per cent.; and the third (XXIX.) gives by age-periods the proportions per cent. of the Irish population unmarried, married, and widowed, in 1851. On the 30th of March, 1851, there were 867,486 males, and 820,118 females, seventeen years of age and upwards, unmarried; 832,798 males and 867,798 females, married; 111,213 widowers, and 338,629 widows. Thus, of the total number of males, forty-eight per cent. were unmarried, forty-six per cent. married, and six per cent. were widowers; and of the total number of females, forty per cent. were unmarried, forty-three per cent. married, and seventeen per cent. were widows. The proportion of unmarried males was four per cent, and of unmarried females, two per cent., more in 1851 than in 1841; there was a decrease of five per cent. in the proportion of married males, and of six per cent., married females, in 1851; and an increase of one per cent. in the proportion of widowers, and of four per cent. in the widows in the same year; in the rural districts five per cent. and in the civic districts two per cent. more males were unmarried in 1851 than in 1841; and in the rural districts two per cent. more females were unmarried in 1851. In the civic districts the unmarried females were in the same proportion to the population seventeen years old and upwards in 1851, as they were in 1841. In 1851 the proportion of widowers increased one per cent. in both the rural and civic districts. The proportion of widows increased four per cent. in the rural and two per cent. in the civic districts.

CONDITION AS TO MARRIAGE.

Unmarried.

The proportion of married males decreased six per cent. in the rural and three per cent. in the civic districts; and of married females the decrease was six per cent. in the rural, and two per cent. in the civic districts. The proportion of males returned as unmarried in 1851, of the age of seventeen and upwards, was fifty-four per cent. in the counties of Kildare and Queen's; fifty-three per cent. in Meath; fifty-two per cent. in King's County, Clare, Tipperary, and Waterford; fifty-one per cent. in Westmeath, Wicklow, Cork, and Limerick; fifty per cent. in Carlow, Kilkenny, and Galway; forty-nine per cent. in Longford; forty-eight per cent. in Kerry, Cavan, Fermanagh, Monaghan, and Tyrone; forty-seven per cent. in Louth, Wexford, Leitrim, and Roscommon; forty-six per cent. in Armagh and Londonderry; forty-five per cent. in Dublin. Donegal, Mayo, and Sligo; forty-four per cent. in Kilkenny City, and in Antrim, and Down; forty-two per cent. in the towns of Drogheda and Galway, and in the city of Limerick; forty-one per cent. in the cities of Dublin and Waterford; forty per cent. in the city of Cork, and the town of Carrickfergus; and thirty-eight per cent. in the town of Belfast. In the provinces the proportion of unmarried males of the ages mentioned was—Munster, fifty per cent.; Leinster, forty-nine per cent.; Connaught, forty-seven per cent.; and Ulster, forty-six per cent. Of females unmarried of the ages of seventeen and upwards, the proportions in the several counties, cities, and towns were—in the town of Carrickfergus, forty-six per cent.; in the counties of Carlow and Dublin, Queen's, Wexford, and Down, each forty-four per cent; the city of Kilkenny. city and county of Waterford, and Londonderry, each forty-three per cent.; Kildare, Kilkenny, Meath, Tipperary, Antrim, Fermanagh, Monaghan, and Tyrone, each forty-two per cent.; King's County, Wicklow, city of Limerick, and county of Armagh, each forty-one per cent.: cities of Dublin and Cork, and counties of Louth, Westmeath, Clare, and Donegal, each forty per cent.; the towns of Belfast, Drogheda, and Galway, and the counties of Cork and Limerick, had each thirty-nine per cent.; Cavan and Galway, each thirty-eight per cent.; Sligo, thirty-seven per cent.; Longford, Kerry, and Mayo, each thirty-six per cent.; and Leitrim and Roscommon, each thirty-five per cent. In the provinces the proportion of unmarried females was—Leinster and Ulster, each forty-two per cent.; Munster forty, and Connaught thirty-seven per cent.

Married.

The greatest proportion of married males was in the town of Belfast, which contained fifty-six per cent. in 1851; the greatest proportion of married females was in the county of Leitrim, which contained forty-eight per cent.

Widowed.

The greatest relative number of widowers was found in the city of Kilkenny, and of widows in the counties of Clare, Kerry, and Galway, and in the cities of Kilkenny and Limerick, each of which latter contained twenty per cent. In 1851 there were only six males, and 175 females, who had been married under seventeen years of age; there were two widows under that age; of the males seventeen years old, and under twenty-five ninety-six per cent. were unmarried, and four per cent. married; of the females, ninety per cent. were unmarried, and ten per cent. married. Twenty-five and under thirty-five years old—fifty-nine per cent. of the males, and forty per cent. of the females, were unmarried; forty per cent of the males, and fifty-six per cent. of the females were married; and one per cent. of the males, and four per cent. of the females were widowed. At the ages of thirty-five and under forty-five, twenty-one per cent. of males, and seventeen per cent. of females, were unmarried; seventy-four per cent. of males, and sixty-eight per cent. of females, were married; and five per cent. of males, and fifteen per cent. of females, were widowed. At the ages forty-five and under fifty-five, twelve per cent. of males, and thirteen per cent. of females, were unmarried; seventy-nine per cent. of males, and fifty-nine per cent. of females, were married; and nine per cent. of males, and twenty-eight per cent. of females, were widowed. At fifty-five years old and upwards there were eight per cent. of males, and eleven per cent. of females, unmarried; sixty-nine per cent. of males, and thirty-seven per cent. of females, married; and twenty-three per cent. males, and fifty-two per cent. females, widowed.

The total number of marriages which appear, from the returns received, to have taken place between the Census of 1841 and 1851, was 322,527; of these, eleven per cent. were in 1841; ten per cent. in 1842; ten per cent. in 1843; eleven per cent. in 1844; eleven per cent. in 1845; eleven per cent. in 1846; eight per cent. in 1847; nine per cent. in 1848; nine per cent. in 1849; and ten per cent. in 1850. These numbers, though imperfect, indicate in some degree the effects of the famine on the marriages in Ireland during 1847 and the following years.

CONDITION AS TO MARRIAGE.

The number of persons, males and females, living in Ireland on the 30th of March, 1851, who were married in each of the years from 1841 to 1850, according to the returns received, are given in the miscellaneous tables at page 658. These numbers are evidently deficient; and as this information cannot be obtained with any approach to accuracy for so lengthened a period, by means of a mere Census Inquiry, and are, therefore, of little practical value, the necessity of a general measure for the registration of the whole of the marriages solemnized in Ireland, as well as of the births and deaths of the entire population, must be apparent.

Annual Number of Marriages.

The number of marriages in each year, from 1841 to 1850, as taken from the Family Returns, fall very much below the number which must have actually taken place in these years, as will be seen from the following statement:—

IRISH-SPEAKING POPULATION.

In 1851, 740,045 males, and 784,241 females, making together, 1,524,286 persons, or 23·3 per cent. of the entire population, were returned on the Family Forms as able to speak the Irish language. The information was collected in the space under the heading "Education," and a note at the foot of the form (which may have been overlooked in some cases) required the person filling the return to add the word "Irish" to the name of each person who speaks Irish, but who cannot speak English, and the words "Irish and English" to the names of those who can speak both the Irish and English languages. The result of the inquiries so made shows that of the total number returned, 4·88 per cent. of the population could speak Irish only, and 18·38 per cent. could speak both Irish and English. Of the four provinces, Connaught shows the largest proportion who could speak Irish, 50·77 per cent. of the population being able to converse in their native language; of these, (amounting to 512,849 persons,) 137,283, or 13·59 per cent., could speak Irish only, and 375,566, or 37·18 per cent., both Irish and English. The greatest actual number of Irish-speaking people was in Munster, which contained 815,785 persons (or 43·91 per cent.) of this class; of these, 7·88 per cent. could speak Irish only, and 36·03 per cent. both Irish and English. In Ulster only 6·78 per cent. of the population could speak the native language, and in Leinster only 3·54 per cent. In the counties the largest proportion—69·70 per cent.—of Irish-speaking people was found in the county of Galway; of these, 24·19 per cent. could speak Irish only, and 45·51 per cent. both Irish and English. Mayo shows the next highest proportion—65·60 per cent.; of which 18·08 per cent.

could speak Irish, and 47·52 per cent. Irish and English. The county in which there was the least proportion of those who spoke Irish was Wicklow, in which there were only 135 persons of this class, equal to 0·14 per cent. of the population, and all of them could speak Irish and English. The next lowest proportion was in Queen's, 0·22 per cent.; then Carlow, Down, and King's—each 0·36 per cent., followed by Wexford, which contained 0·44 per cent.; Kildare, 0·54 per cent.; Westmeath, 0·83 per cent.; and Dublin, 0·87 per cent. 69·70 per cent. of the population of Galway; 65·60 per cent. of that of Mayo; 62·59 per cent. of that of Waterford; 61·49 per cent. of the inhabitants of the county of Kerry; 59·78 per cent. of those of Clare; and 52·53 of the people of Cork, could speak the Irish language. In the other counties the proportion fluctuated from 38·30 in Sligo, to 1·20 per cent. in Antrim.

IRISH-SPEAKING POPULATION.

The number, age, and sex of persons who could speak Irish only, and Irish and English, are given by baronies for each county in the general tables. The proportions of the number who could speak Irish, and Irish and English, at each age, were as under:—

The number and proportion per cent. to the population of persons who could speak Irish only, and Irish and English, at the time of the Census of 1851, are shown in Table XXX.*

MILITARY.

The number of the military serving in Ireland, at the time of taking the Census; the occupations of the men before they joined the army; and the degrees of education of each individual are given in the Appendix, pages lxx and lxxi. These men have been excluded, as in 1841, from the general tables, in every case.

There were 21,893 men returned on the Census Forms as belonging to that portion of the army serving in Ireland on the 30th of March, 1851; 2,740 of this number were 10 and under 20 years of age; 8,878 were 20 and under 25; 4,917 were 25 and under 30; 3,117 were 30 and under 35; 1,615 were 35 and under 40; 453 were 40 and under 45; and the remaining 129 were 45 and upwards. 16,553 of these men could read and write; 1,656 could read only; and of the total number there were but 3,684 who could neither read nor write. 17,617, or 81 per cent. of the whole number of men, were unmarried; 3,898, or 18 per cent., married; and 115, or 1 per cent., widowed. There were not any soldiers returned as quartered in the counties of Antrim, Leitrim, or Wicklow; nor in Carrickfergus.

NUMBER OF THE SICK.

The number of the sick in Ireland on the night of the 30th of March, 1851, and the number, causes, &c., of deaths, from the Census of 1841 to that of 1851, having been reported upon in Parts III. and V. of our publications, we shall only here give tables, showing the general results of the inquiries on these subjects. The first table (XXXI.) shows the number of the sick to have been 104,495 persons of both sexes, or 1·59 per cent. of the population. Of these, 5,180 were deaf and dumb, 7,587 blind, 5,046 lunatic, 4,904 idiotic, 4,375 lame and decrepit; the remaining numbers (77,403) were sick from other causes. The greatest proportion of sick to the population was found in the Province of Munster, which contained 2·17 per cent. of persons suffering from illness on the night of the 30th of March, 1851; Leinster contained 1·71 per cent.; Connaught, 1·35 per cent.; and Ulster least of all the provinces—1·09 per cent. of persons sick on the night referred to. The city of Kilkenny contained the highest proportion of sick—3·50 per cent.; and Galway town contained 3·02 per cent. The least proportion of sick—0·64 per cent.—was found in the town of Drogheda. These proportions, however, do not show the comparative salubrity of the counties or towns, as many persons from adjoining or distant counties may resort to the county, or city, or town, in which they have been returned as under medical treatment. The number of the resident natives of a county, city, or town, who were suffering from illness at the same time, would give a more satisfactory and accurate basis for arriving at a conclusion as to the most healthful divisions of the country.

* It would have added to the interest of this subject, had we been able to institute an ethnological investigation as to the names of the people. A few baronies were done under the direction of Doctor O'Donovan, but insufficient to elucidate the matter.

* There were in Ireland, on the night of the 30th of March, 1851, 28 persons Lunatic and 2 Idiotic who were not natives of this country, these persons were omitted from the above Table.

NUMBER OF DEATHS.

In Tables XXXII. and XXXIII. are given the total number of deaths by seasons, localities, and diseases, and the number of deaths in each year, from the 6th of June, 1841, to the 30th of March, 1851; but these, as well as the marriages, fall short of the actual number which took place, as they are only those afforded by persons who were living in Ireland at the time of taking the Census; a correct statement of the number of deaths, their causes, &c., can never be procured by means of such an inquiry, especially when it extends over a period so long as nearly ten years; the necessity therefore for a general measure to embrace the registration of deaths is manifest. Of the deaths returned, 5·1 per cent took place in 1842, 5·2 per cent. in 1843, 5·6 per cent. in 1844, 6·4 per cent. in 1845,

NUMBER OF DEATHS.

9·1 per cent. in 1846, 18·5 per cent. in 1847; 15·4 per cent. in 1848, 17·9 per cent. in 1849, and 12·2 per cent. in 1850, numbers which, notwithstanding the unreturned deaths, show very forcibly the intensity of the calamities which befell Ireland, arising from the famine and pestilence of 1846, and following years. But as this painful subject has been specially reported on in Volume I. of Part V., we shall here merely refer to that report for a particular account of the various matters which have been investigated in connexion with it.

* In 11,331 cases of deaths returned from the Poor Law Unions of Castlereagh, Scarriff, Kenturk, Kinsale, and Listowel, the ages, sexes, cause, or date of death, were not specified.

The tables compiled in accordance with the provisions of the 13 and 14 Vict., ch. 81, sec. 2, distinguishing "those parishes and places, or parts of parishes "and places, within each district, respectively, which are within the limits of "any city or borough returning a member or members to serve in Parliament," are given at pages 638 to 645. PARLIAMENTARY BOROUGHS.

Under the provisions of the Irish Population Act, 13 and 14 Vict., cap. 44, sec. 2, we were required to distinguish the persons "born in the place or parish, "and county in which they shall be then dwelling." Accordingly, we inserted a column in "Form A," or the Family Return, as was done in 1841, in which the party filling it was required to state "in what country, county, or city," each member of the family was born. The results of this inquiry are given in the Migration Tables at pages 646 to 657. From these tables it appears that between 1841 and 1851 there has been a very great interchange of inhabitants between the several counties and cities; for, notwithstanding the decrease of the population, there was, with few exceptions, a larger number of persons residing in counties in which they were not born in 1851 than in 1841. In some of the cities and counties the number had greatly increased. Thus in the city of Dublin there were 62,584 persons in 1841, and 101,558 persons in 1851, MIGRATION.

residing, who were not born there; the proportion of these immigrants being in 1841 26·89 per cent., and in 1851 39·31 per cent., of the population of the metropolis. In Belfast the increase of the non-native population was also large, the proportion to the inhabitants being, in 1841, 22·95 per cent., and in 1851, 43·33 per cent. In Cork city the numbers rose from 5,224, or 6·47 per cent., in 1841, to 8,544, or 9·97 per cent., in 1851. The amount in the town of Drogheda also rose from 2,420, or 14·88 per cent, in 1841, to 8,843, or 52·49 per cent., in 1851. Limerick city had increased from 5,829 persons, or 12·05 per cent., to the population in 1841, to 13,129 persons, or 24·57 per cent, in 1851; and in the city of Waterford the influx of strangers raised the proportions from 16·86 per cent. to 30·43 per cent. in 1851.

The variations in the number and proportion of persons resident in the several counties and cities, but who were not born in them, are shown in Table XXXIII.; and in Table XXXIV. are given the number and proportion per cent., in 1841 and 1851, of the several persons residing in counties of which they were not natives, distinguishing those born in Ireland from those born in England, Wales, and Scotland, and in foreign countries. It will be observed, from the latter table, that in 1851 there were resident out of the counties, &c., in which they were born, 578,258 persons, or 8·82 per cent. of the population, all natives of Ireland, being an increase in the proportion since 1841 in this class of 3·86 per cent. Of those born in England and Wales, there were resident in Ireland, in 1841, 21,552 persons, whilst in 1851 the numbers were 34,454. Of natives of Scotland there were living in Ireland 8,585 persons in 1841, whilst in 1851 the numbers were 12,309. The greatest number of English was found in the city of Dublin, which contained 7,582 persons in 1851, who had been born in England, whilst in 1841 there were only 4,264; in the town of Belfast the number of English increased from 888 in 1841, to 2,216 in 1851; in the town of Drogheda it increased from 95 in 1841, to 269 in 1851; in the city of Cork from 923 in 1841, to 1,566 in 1851; and in the county of Cork from 1,468 to 3,653 in the same period; an increase having taken place in 1851 in the number of English resident in Ireland in every county, city, and large town. The greatest number of Scotch was found in Belfast in 1851; the city of Dublin contained the largest amount in 1841. The following places show a decrease in the number of Scotch in 1851 compared with 1841:—Carrickfergus town, Drogheda town, and the counties of Carlow, Dublin, Galway, Kilkenny, King's, Louth, Mayo, Monaghan, Roscommon, Tipperary, Waterford, Wexford, and Wicklow.

The number of persons born in foreign countries resident in Ireland in 1841 was 4,471; in 1851 it was 9,583. In four of the counties the number of persons living in them who were natives of foreign countries decreased between 1841 and 1851; these were Cavan, Leitrim, Longford, and Sligo.

EMIGRATION.

Our attention was early directed to the important subject of emigration from Ireland; and with the approval of the Lord Lieutenant measures were taken by us, in the month of May, 1851, to collect returns* at the several Irish ports at which emigrants embarked, showing their names, ages, and sexes; whether their emigration was intended to be temporary or permanent; their occupations; from what county, city, or town they came; and also their particular destination. The tables compiled from these returns are given in the Appendix, and show the most important of the particulars above referred to, as regards emigrants who left the ports of Ireland from the 1st of May, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855—a period of four years and eight months;—the ports at which they embarked, and the number who left each port during every month, are also given. These tables exhibit only the direct emigration from Ireland; we have, however, been obligingly furnished by the Emigration Commissioners in London with two returns, which are also given in the Appendix; one showing the emigration of the Irish from the ports of the United Kingdom, from the 30th of June, 1841, to the 31st of March, 1851; the other the like emigration, from the 1st of January, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855—both tables giving the country to which the emigrants were bound. The returns obtained by us of emigrants who sailed from Irish ports, differ in some respects from those furnished by the Emigration Commissioners, as the former only show the number of persons who left Ireland, stating it to be their intention not to return; whilst the latter show the estimated emigration of Irish from all ports of the United Kingdom. We give here two tables—XXXV. and XXXVI.—showing the emigration from Ireland and that from the United Kingdom respectively:—

From the first of these tables (XXXV.) it will be seen that 747,999 persons, or 11·41 per cent. of the population of 1851, left Irish ports, from the 1st of May, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855, stating it to be their intention not to return; and that of this number 20·33 per cent. sailed in the last eight months of 1851; 25·44 per cent. during the year 1852; 23·15 per cent. in 1853; 18·79 per cent. in 1854; and 12·29 per cent. in 1855. 49·87 per cent. of the entire number of emigrants were males, and 50·13 per cent. were females; so that the sexes emigrated in nearly equal numbers. The counties which supplied the greatest proportion of emigrants, computed on the population of 1851 were—Tipperary, 17·97 per cent.; Clare, 17·59 per cent.; Limerick, 16·95 per cent.; Kerry, 16·59 per cent.; Kilkenny, 15·75 per cent.; Waterford, 15·28 per cent.; King's, 14·07 per cent.; Cork, 13·94 per cent.; Westmeath, 12·08 per cent.; Queen's, 13·73 per cent; Cavan, 13·72 per cent.; Longford, 12·88 per cent.; Louth, 12·09 per cent.; Meath and Westmeath, each 12·08 per cent. The counties which furnished the least number of emigrants were—Dublin, 3·45 per cent.; Down, 6·08 per cent.; Antrim, 6·82 per cent.; Sligo, 6·93 per cent.; Armagh, 7·60 per cent.; Mayo, 7·72 per cent.; Londonderry, 8·25 per cent.; Wicklow, 8·76 per cent.; and Tyrone, 8·80 per cent. Of the total number of emigrants from Ireland 12·11 per cent. were from the county of Cork; 7·97 per cent. from Tipperary; 5·94 per cent. from Limerick; 5·28 per cent. from Kerry; 5·03 per cent. from Galway; 5· per cent. from Clare. The proportions from the remaining counties fluctuated from 3·53 per cent. in Donegal, to 1·09 per cent. in Carlow, which was the lowest.

N.B.—"This Table was compiled on the assumption that nine-tenths of the Emigration from Liverpool to North America, and "that all the Emigration from Irish Ports consisted of Irish, to which is added the number of Irish Emigrants conveyed from "London and Plymouth, in ships chartered by the Emigration Commissioners.

"During the period from 1841 to 1845, no record was kept of the Irish Emigrants who embarked at London or Plymouth. The "total Emigration, however, amounted only to 2,761."

The proportions per cent., at each age, of the emigrants from Irish ports, during the period from the 1st of May, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855, were—

According to the very interesting returns received from the Emigration Commissioners, it would appear that from the 30th of June, 1841, to the 31st of March, 1851, 1,240,737 persons, and from the 1st of April, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855, 847,119 persons, amounting in all to 2,087,856, who were born in Ireland, are estimated to have emigrated from the ports of the United Kingdom in the time specified, or 14½ years. Of these emigrants 76·7 per cent. were bound for the United States, 19·7 per cent. for British North America, and 3·6 per cent. for the Australian colonies. Between the 1st of April, 1851, and the 31st of December, 1855, the emigration of the Irish to the Australian colonies was 6·5 per cent. of the total number of emigrants; the emigration to the United States was 81·4 per cent.; and that to British North America had fallen to 12·0 per cent. Speaking of the entire emigration from the United Kingdom, in their Report for 1851, the Emigration Commissioners observe:—

EMIGRATION.

"But it is of much graver importance when regarded as proceeding principally from one portion, and that the poorest, and not the most populous, of the United Kingdom. It is well known that the great bulk of this emigration has for many years proceeded from Ireland; and to those who had watched its progress the result of the late Census returns caused little surprise. But the rate at which it is now proceeding so far exceeds its rate during the majority of the years included in the last Census, that, unless some very great change take place shortly, or the loss be supplied from other quarters, the next Census returns will show a much larger reduction of the population than the last. The decrease in the population of Ireland between 1841 and 1851 was 1,659,330 [correctly 1,622,739]. Assuming that nine-tenths of the emigration from Liverpool during those ten years was Irish, and adding thereto the emigration direct from Ireland, and in ships chartered by this Board, we have the following result:—

Nine-tenths of emigration from Liverpool, ...	813,844
Emigration direct from Ireland, ...	441,237
Irish, in ships chartered by this Board, ...	34,052
Total Irish emigration in the ten years, . .	1,289,133

or more than three-fourths of the whole decrease.

"We have little doubt that this estimate is below the truth, inasmuch as the emigration from Liverpool has, in many years, been almost exclusively Irish, and as no account is here taken of Irish who may have sailed from other ports, and especially the Clyde. We have not, however, the means of forming a more accurate estimate for past years; because, although the returns to the Customs would show the birthplace of each emigrant, they would not distinguish between Irish who are only so by birth and those who had also been resident in their native country; and, therefore, with a greater show of accuracy, those returns would probably be a less correct index of the effect of emigration on the population of the country, than the estimate which we have been in the habit of making from the information supplied to us by our officers at the outports.

"In regard to the emigration of 1851, we have been informed by the Emigration officer at Glasgow, that of 14,435 emigrants who sailed from the Clyde to America, about one-third were Irish. Proceeding, then, in regard to other places on the same estimate as in former years, we should assume the Irish emigration of 1851 to have been—

Nine-tenths emigrants from Liverpool, ...	185,414
Emigrants direct from Ireland, ...	62,350
One-third from Glasgow, ...	4,811
Emigrants to Australia in ships chartered by this Board, .	4,797
Making a total of	257,372

"By the Census return of last year the population of Ireland on the 30th March, 1851, amounted to 6,515,794 [correctly 6,552,385]. Assuming that this population were increased by births at the rate of one per cent. per annum, which (taking into account the emigration) was the rate of increase between 1831 and 1841, it would give an annual addition of only 65,157. The emigration, therefore, of 1851, while it nearly doubled the estimated average of the preceding ten years, exceeded any probable increase of the population by nearly 4 to 1. But this calculation, unfavourable as it appears, is clearly below the truth; for the classes that emigrate include a large proportion of the youngest, the healthiest, and most energetic of the adult population, on which the excess of births over deaths mainly depends. We should be disposed to believe that those who remain, including an unusual proportion of the old, the most feeble, and most destitute, do not, at the most, do more than replace by births their losses by deaths. If so, it would follow that the annual decrease of the population in Ireland is not less than the annual amount of the emigration; and unless that the emigration be soon arrested, the country will be deserted by its original population.

"That the emigration will be arrested by any thing short of a great improvement in the position of the labouring population in Ireland, we see no reason to believe.

"All those obstacles which, in ordinary cases, would be opposed to so wholesale an emigration appear in the case of the Irish to be smoothed away. The misery which they have for many years endured has destroyed their attachment to their native soil; the numbers who have already emigrated and prospered remove the apprehension of going to a strange and untried country, while the want of means is remedied by the liberal contributions of their relations and friends who have preceded them. The contributions so made, either in the form of prepaid passages, or of money sent home, and which are almost exclusively provided by the Irish, were returned to us as in—

1848 upwards of	£460,000
1849 ,, ...	540,000
1850 ,, ...	957,000
and 1851 ,, ...	990,000

And, although it is probable that all the money included in these returns is not expended in emigration, yet, as we have reason to know that much is sent home of which these returns show no trace, it seems not unfair to assume that of the money expended in Irish emigration in each of the last four years, a very large proportion was provided from the other side of the Atlantic.

* * * * * *

"The statement given above of these contributions is striking, not only on account of their actual amount, but also of the great increase between 1849 and 1850. This may, in part, have arisen from fuller returns in the latter years; but we have no reason to doubt that it arose also from an absolute increase in the contributions. The system of sending out one or two members of a family to work out the passages of the rest, is stated to be so general in Ireland, that a very great increase in the amount of the contributions could scarcely fail to take place. At the same time, as we have no official authority for these returns, but are able to obtain them only through the courtesy of the houses engaged in the American trade, we cannot pronounce positively as to the causes of the difference between the two earlier and two later years. But so far, we feel confident that so long as the necessity for such contributions continues they will not fail to be forthcoming. It was for this reason principally that, two years ago, we expressed our opinion that emigration from Ireland was likely rather to increase than diminish."

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

And referring to the causes which led to so large a proportion of Irish emigrants going to the United States in preference to the British Colonies, the Commissioners observe:—

"So great an apparent change in the course of emigration, and so unusual a spectacle as the mass of an emigrating population seeking by preference a foreign country, has naturally attracted much attention, and been explained in different ways It appears to us traceable to a few simple causes.

"The population of Canada and New Brunswick, to which alone of the British provinces emigrants proceed, cannot at the present moment (1851) exceed 1,750,000 souls. It is obvious that a population so limited could not, from its own resources, provide employment for any large number of immigrants; and accordingly, although the emigration to those provinces during the ten years preceding 1847 scarcely exceeded on an average 29,000 souls a-year, even this number was more than their labour markets could absorb; and a large proportion of those who landed on their shores, probably not less than one-fourth, were continually passing into the United States.

"When, therefore, the emigration from this country began to approach its present extent, it followed, necessarily, that the great mass of the emigrants should seek employment in those States, where a population of upwards of 23,000,000, joined to an unlimited territory, offers a certainty of employment and the means of subsistence to any number of immigrants. This result, which under any circumstances could not be long delayed, was probably accelerated by the increase and uncertainty of the tax on emigrants imposed by the Canadian legislature immediately after the disastrous emigration of 1847; and it has now been rendered permanent, by the fact above alluded to, that the great bulk of the Irish emigration is conducted by means of prepaid passages, or of money sent home from the United States.

"The same affectionate feeling which prompts the settled emigrant to send home money to take out his relatives would naturally make him wish to repair to the same country as himself; and it is equally natural that persons emigrating under such circumstances should proceed to the country where their friends are settled and have prospered, rather than to a country where they would be strangers. We cannot, therefore, regard it as a matter of astonishment that so large a proportion of the emigrants from Ireland should proceed to the United States; nor can we think it probable that the stream of emigration could now be turned aside, even if it were desired, to our own colonies.

"That such a result might have been prevented at an earlier period is not impossible; but it could have been prevented only at a very large cost, and that cost could have been defrayed only out of the Imperial treasury." * * *

We now come to consider the effect which emigration has had on the population of Ireland since 1851. The number of inhabitants on the 30th of March in that year—the date of the Census—was 6,552,385 persons. Assuming the same rate of increase as that adopted in Table VII., page xvi, we have the following results:—

EMIGRATION.

Decrease of Population.

From Table XXXVII. it appears that the inhabitants of Ireland have, by emigration, decreased 475,102 persons from the 30th of March, 1851, to the 31st of December, 1855, so that at the present time the population does not much exceed six millions; and it is probable that this number is still diminishing, owing to the emigrants from this country continuing to be greater in amount than the assumed excess of births over deaths. In these computations we have taken the number of emigrants from Irish ports only, as returned by the enumerators, because the returns received by us from the Emigration Commissioners, include the Irish emigrants from all parts of the United Kingdom, many of whom had been previously settled in England. With regard to the numbers given in the foregoing statement, as having left Irish ports during the last nine months of 1851, we have to observe that for April in that year the number has been estimated, as we had not in that month any returns of the emigration from Ireland.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, we feel it will be gratifying to your Excellency to find that although the population has been diminished in so remarkable a manner by famine, disease, and emigration between 1841 and 1851, and has been since decreasing, the results of the Irish Census of 1851 are, on the whole, so satisfactory, demonstrating as they do the general advancement of the country. We have shown in the course of our observations that the extent of arable land and the value of farm stock have increased since 1841—that the worst class of houses is being replaced by a better—that a smaller proportion of families is dependent on their own manual labour for support—and that the education of the people has favourably progressed.

We have the honour to annex copies of the Warrant of the Earl of Clarendon, and of the letter which accompanied it, appointing us to carry out the provisions of the Irish Census Act; and it now only remains for us to state to your Excellency that our special thanks are due to the nobility, gentry, and clergy of all denominations, for the valuable assistance afforded to us by them at the period of taking the Census; we are also particularly indebted to the public press of Ireland for its generous and patriotic aid in removing prejudices, and making widely known the objects of the inquiries. The Inspector-General of Constabulary, and the officers and men under his command, and the Commissioners of the Metropolitan Police, with the force under their control, are, we beg to say, entitled to the highest commendations for the very efficient manner in which the enumerators performed their important duties. To the Comptroller-General of the Coast Guard, and to the heads of the several public departments with whom it has been our duty to hold communication, we have also to record our obligations. We regret here to state, that during the progress of the work we were deprived of the valuable services of our late Secretary, Mr. Edward Singleton, who was obliged at the close of last year, owing to the state of his health, to retire from the public service. In bringing our labours to a close, it gives us much pleasure to observe that the several persons who were employed in this office during this very extended inquiry, have in general performed their duties with diligence and to our satisfaction; but especially to those in charge of sections are we indebted for their exertions; and to Mr. Henry Wilkie, our acting Secretary, we feel that our acknowledgments are also due for his zeal and efficiency in the discharge of the duties which devolved upon him.

We have the honour to remain

Your Excellency's

Very faithful servants,

WILLIAM DONNELLY, Registrar-General, } Chief Commissioner.

WILLIAM R. WILDE, Assistant Commissioner.

HENRY WILKIE,

Acting Secretary.

THE CENSUS COMMISSIONERS beg leave most earnestly to entreat the Heads of Families to see that the several Queries contained in this sheet are distinctly and accurately filled up, since upon the accuracy of the answers given the value of the Census must mainly depend. As the information thus obtained will be published in General Abstracts only, and strict care taken that the Returns are not used for the gratification of curiosity, or any other object than perfecting the Census, the Commissioners feel that on National grounds,—apart from the requirements of the Act of Parliament,—they are warranted in making this appeal to the Heads and the various Members of Families to aid them in their important inquiries, as it is of the deepest interest to ascertain with all possible accuracy, the exact numbers and condition of the population of Ireland at the present time.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILLING THESE TABLES.

It is intended that the Enumerator shall call for this Return as soon as possible after the night of the 30th March, when he will assist such persons as may not be able to fill it themselves. But when competent, it is requested that the Head of the Family shall fill, or cause it to be filled, immediately after the said night, in order that the Enumerator may not be delayed when he calls for it.

This Return is divided into Three Tables.

THE 1ST TABLE is for those persons of each Family, the Visitors, and Servants, who slept or abode in the same house on the night of Sunday, the 30th March.

By a Family is meant either one person living on his or her own means of support, or several persons united under one head, and having a common means of support;—therefore when there are several Families in one house, a separate Form will be left for each.

OCCUPATIONS.—In order to arrive at a correct classification of the employment of the people, attention is requested to the following observations:—

One general principle which should be kept in mind is, that each person will be best described to whose name is annexed his or her principal means of support: thus, "Landed Proprietor,"—"House Owner,"—"Fund" or "Stock Holder,"—"Annuitant," &c., will best define the more independent classes, whose principal means are derived from any of these or similar sources.

PROFESSIONS.—A person deriving his income from a profession should state its particular nature; and professional men who are occupied with other avocations, should define their present employment. Clergymen should be described according to their Rank or Station; Barristers and Attorneys, whether they practice; Medical men, what branch of the profession they follow; Military and Naval Officers, retired from the service, should give their rank, also adding the terms "Retired Officer;" Artists to mention the particular Art which they pursue.

P

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

Merchants should state the particular trade in which they are engaged, and Shopkeepers are to observe the same rule. In reference to writing Clerks, it is desirable that the description should show the duty of the office, as "Clerk in Public Office;"—"Law Clerk,"—"Clerk in Corn Merchant's Office," &c.

Manufacturers, Tradesmen, and Apprentices.—The particular branch of Manufacture with which each is connected should be stated: thus, a weaver of silk should be distinguished from a weaver of any other kind of material, by describing him as a "Silk Weaver;" in a similar manner a "Woollen Weaver," a "Linen Weaver," &c. This rule is to be also observed with respect to every other trade: as "Brass Founder" or "Iron Founder,"—"House Carpenter," or "Ship Carpenter,"—"House Painter," or "Carriage Painter," &c.

Servants and Labourers employed in Agricultural Works should be distinguished from those occupied in other ways, by stating the particular kind of Work in which each individual is engaged, as "Ploughing;" "Sowing Oats" or "Flax;" "Drainage Labourer;" "Mason's Labourer;" "Railway Labourer," &c.; and in the case of Household Servants, by giving their occupations.

Education.—In addition to the elementary acquirements in the English Language asked for under this head, information is also sought for with regard to the Irish Language, in order to ascertain the localities where, and the number of persons by whom, it is now spoken.

Deaf and Dumb, or Blind.—Particular inquiry is now for the first time made in this country as to the number and condition of the Deaf and Dumb, and the Blind, in the hope that public attention may be more strongly directed to the wants of the poorer classes in Ireland who are thus afflicted. Those persons only are to be returned as Blind, who are quite deprived of sight.

The 2nd TABLE is necessary in order to ascertain the number of persons belonging to each Family, whether present or absent, on the night of the 30th March. The absent members, if in Ireland, will of course be counted for the General Enumeration in the houses where they may happen to pass that night.

The 3rd TABLE is for a return of those persons who have Died while residing with this Family, during the last Ten Years. The necessity for this is caused by the want of a General Registration of Deaths in Ireland, and consequently a defect of information for various objects useful to the community. These Tables, however, will only show the Deaths which have occurred during the last Ten Years in the families now in existence.

It is particularly requested that this Return may not be soiled or in any way injured.

When the Members of a Family are too numerous for one form, two or more will be supplied.

The Enumerator, on receiving this Return, is on no account to permit it to be inspected by any other person, except the Officer of the District, to whom he is instructed to deliver it.

☞ This Form is only to be left with those families, some Member of which was ill on Sunday the 30th March, and with respect to whose illness the Enumerator was unable to obtain the required information when collecting Form A.

The great importance to Medical and Statistical Science of the information required by the questions asked in this Form, will, the Census Commissioners hope, induce the Heads of Families to afford the Enumerators every facility in the execution of their duty, by either filling the Returns themselves, or giving correct information to enable the Enumerators to do so.

The alleviation of human suffering arising from Bodily infirmity, is a work in which every Member of the Community should naturally feel an interest, and one important step in this direction is to ascertain the extent and character of the evils to be contended with; towards these most desirable objects the Commissioners hope to assist by means of this Return.

The Medical Attendants on the Sick are earnestly requested to aid the Heads of Families and the Enumerators in filling up this Table, by supplying the proper Names of the Diseases.

These Returns will be considered as strictly confidential, and will be used solely in compiling Statistical Tables, in which numbers and classes only shall appear—individuals being entirely lost sight of.

Approved,
WM. M. SOMERVILLE.

WM. DONNELLY,
Registrar-General.

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1851.

CIRCULAR.

Census Commission Office,
5, Henrietta-street,
Dublin, , 1851.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR SUPERINTENDENTS.

I.

1. In accordance with the provisions of the Act 13 and 14 Vict., c. 44, the Constabulary and the Metropolitan Police are to be the Enumerators for the Census of 1851, together with such other competent persons as it may be found necessary to appoint.

2. The Census is to be taken in townlands, parishes, baronies, and counties, according to the Boundaries laid down on the Ordnance Maps.

3. Each Constabulary District is, as far as possible, to form a Census District, and is to be under the Superintendence of the Sub-Inspector or Head Constable in charge of it.

4. A map of the Census District, showing its limits, and the boundaries of the Townlands and Parishes within it, will be sent for the guidance of the Superintendent and the Enumerators acting under him.

5. The boundary of the District is coloured green, that of the Sub-District yellow, and that of the Townland red.

II.

1. The Superintendent's first duty will be, to lay out the map into Districts, each to consist of as many Townlands as he may think advisable to allocate to one Enumerator, having due regard to their position, extent, and population, to the number of Constabulary who can be employed, and the duties they will have to discharge.

2. The duty of the Enumerator may be thus generally defined:—He will call at each house within his Enumeration District at some period during the ten days previous to Sunday the 30th Day of March, next, and again during the ten days commencing Monday the 31st of March.

3. On the first occasion he will ascertain the number of families residing in each house, and leave one Form A to be filled, for each family. He will likewise enter in Form B the number of the house, and the name of the Head of each Family residing in it, together with such other particulars as he may then be able to ascertain. Copies of the Forms A and B, above referred to, have already been forwarded to the Superintendent of each District.

4. On the second occasion the Enumerator will collect the Forms A when filled, or assist such persons as may not be able to fill them. He will then, also, verify the accuracy of his previous entries in Form B, and make such further inquiries as will enable him to complete that Return.

5. Specific Instructions will be hereafter sent for the guidance of the Enumerators, which it will be the duty of the Superintendent to see strictly attended to.

III.

1. The Enumerators are to be selected from the members of the Constabulary Force, with the addition, when necessary, of such members of the Coast-guard Service as may be required, and who are available for the Census Inquiries. In the City of Dublin and its vicinity the Metropolitan Police alone are to act as Enumerators.

2. Should these Forces together be found insufficient to furnish a staff of Enumerators able to accomplish the work within the time specified in paragraph 2, Superintendents are at liberty to select and return the names of one or more properly-qualified civilians to assist in the Enumeration. The pay of civilians is not to exceed 3*s.* 6*d.* per day, except under peculiar circumstances, and their period of employment is to be limited to twenty days, unless in cases specially authorized from this office; the nomination of civilians must however be exercised with the utmost discretion, in order that the number of such persons may be as few as possible. The following are the classes of civilians from which, owing to their local knowledge, the Census Commissioners are of opinion Enumerators may be chosen with advantage:—Clerks to Petty Sessions, Schoolmasters, County Cess and Poor Rate Collectors, and Bailiffs to Estates. Or where these are not available, other qualified persons may be recommended for employment.

3. The Enumerator should be trustworthy, active, intelligent, and able to write a fair and legible hand. It is also of importance, that he should not be liable to be removed to another District during the short time his services will be required for the Census.

4. In those Districts where the Irish language prevails, or that many persons are to be found who do not speak English, the Enumerators should be chosen from persons well acquainted with the Irish language, in order to avoid the necessity and expense of employing interpreters.

IV.

1. Having fully considered the foregoing Instructions, each Superintendent is requested to fill up two of the accompanying Returns for each Enumeration District which he has formed, and forward them to this Office without delay. Should the arrangements of the Superintendent be considered satisfactory, one Return for each District will be sent back to him from this office marked "Approved."

2. The Superintendent will also send a List to the County Inspector, showing the names of the Constabulary whom he has nominated as Enumerators, in order that the Inspector may be aware what members of the Force are to be employed on the Census Inquiries.

3. Should changes in any of these appointments become necessary, before the commencement of the work or during its progress, a Report of the facts should be immediately sent to this Office, accompanied by a Return giving the names of the parties proposed to be substituted.

4. The Returns of Enumeration Districts are to be accompanied by a Statement from the Superintendent, showing the names of the members of the Constabulary Force belonging to his District, who have not been appointed Enumerators by him, together with the reasons of their being omitted, in order that the same may, if necessary, be submitted for the consideration of the Inspector-General.

WILLIAM DONNELLY, Registrar-General.

I. I approve of the foregoing Instructions being issued to the Sub-Inspector or Head Constable in charge of each Constabulary District, who will proceed to act thereon with as much care and expedition as possible.

II. Let a copy be sent to each County Inspector.

Dublin, February, 1851.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ENUMERATORS.

1. The Enumerator should first make himself well acquainted with the nature of the questions asked in the different Forms, and carefully examine the Pattern Tables and the Instructions for filling them. He will, upon receiving the list of townlands or streets in his District, proceed to ascertain its boundaries, and to make the requisite entries in "Form B." Should he have any difficulty as to the boundaries, he will refer to the Ordnance maps in his Superintendent's office, in which the boundary of each townland is coloured red: but whether he has previously done so or not, he will on the 20th March commence visiting each house in his District, and leave a "Form A" for every family in each house, before the night of Saturday the 29th March.

FORM A.—FAMILY RETURN.

TABLE I.—1. Each of the following classes is to be regarded as one distinct family:—

A man and his wife, or man, wife, and children, living together, and having no other persons residing with them.

A family such as the above, with their servants and the visitors living with them.

Parents and children, with their visitors or lodgers, boarding at the same table, and the servants of the family.

Two or more lodgers boarding together distinct from the family, and their servants, if any.

A single lodger boarding alone, or merely residing in the house.

2. On Monday the 31st March, the Enumerator will again commence visiting the houses in his District, and will continue to do so until he has collected the "Forms A" from every family within it. On this occasion he will see that each Form is correctly filled; if it is not, he will obtain as accurate information as possible, and fill it himself. It is apprehended that he will not at any time within a few days after the 30th March, find it difficult to ascertain what persons slept or abode in each house on the night of that day. The Enumerator, when leaving "Form A," will remark to the occupiers that the entries in the

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

1st Table are to include all the persons who slept or abode with each family in the house on the night of Sunday the 30th March: this may save much subsequent trouble.

3. With respect to persons travelling during the night, or out all night, they are to be enumerated at the hotel or house at which they arrive on Monday the 31st March; and as Hotels, Inns, Clubs, and Public Lodging-houses, &c., change their inmates frequently, the Enumerator should visit these establishments as soon as possible after the 30th March. Each temporary resident or traveller is to be entered, with such members of his family as accompany him, on a separate "Form A." The owner, master, or steward, with his family, and the servants of such houses, are to be returned as one distinct family.

4 Special Forms for Workhouses, Hospitals, Boarding Schools, Barracks, Lunatic Asylums, Prisons, &c., are to be delivered to the Barrack-masters, Masters, Stewards, or Keepers of such houses, respectively, they being appointed Enumerators by the Census Act for the inmates of all such buildings or institutions; but the Officers of public Institutions themselves and their families; together with the porters and nurses (unless when paupers) are to be enumerated on "Form A."

5. Members of the Constabulary, Coast Guard, and Revenue Police, and their respective families, are also to be enumerated as other families on "Form A."

6. The occupants of ships, vessels, or boats in port, or engaged in river or canal navigation, are to be returned according to the same rule as persons residing in houses. The Enumerators of Districts in which seamen or boatmen are to be found should collect the Returns of these Classes early on the 31st March, lest their vessels might sail before the Returns are collected. Further instructions will be issued with respect to ships, boats, &c

Table II.—For directions with respect to filling this Table, see Instructions on the back of "Form A."

Table III.—1. In assisting persons to fill this Table, the Enumerator will observe the period over which the inquiry extends, in order to enter with accuracy the various persons who have died since the 6th June, 1841, but who would, if now alive, be reckoned among the members of the existing families as relatives, visitors, lodgers, or servants, &c

2. In the cases of Hotels and Boarding-houses, particular inquiry should be made from the heads of such establishments, in order to ascertain the deaths which have taken place among the inmates within the period specified. In Universities and Colleges, inquiry is to be made for the Registration of Deaths from the proper authorities, which are to be inserted in this Table of "Form A." The same rule extends to Institutions for the Deaf and Dumb, Asylums for the Blind and Aged, Alms-houses, Police Stations, &c., the master or steward of such being bound by the Act to furnish the requisite information.

3. Under the head "Cause of Death," the common name of the disease is to be given, unless the scientific name be furnished upon medical authority; and among the Irish-speaking population, the Irish name by which it is generally known.

When collecting the Forms, the Enumerator will read them over, and ascertain that they have, as far as possible, been correctly filled; and also make diligent inquiry that no person within his Enumeration District has been omitted. In cases where persons have gone away before full particulars are obtained, the sex and probable age may be stated of "Person unknown," &c.

Form B.—House and Building Return.

1. On the 20th March each Enumerator, if he has not done so previously, will commence filling "Form B," which is to contain all particulars relating to each house

2. In towns where the houses are numbered, the name of the street and number of the house should be entered in the first column of "Form B;" and in small towns, villages, and townlands, where the houses are not numbered, the numbers should be inserted according to the order in which they are visited by the Enumerator, beginning with No. 1 in "Form B" in each street or townland

3. Every dwelling-house shall be considered as one house, which has a distinct outer door, although it may be occupied by several families living in separate apartments under the same roof. In counting the number of rooms in a house, each apartment should be reckoned as one room; thus, the cabin, within which there is no partition wall, is to be described as a house with one room; if one end of the cabin be partitioned off, and a means of communication maintained by an inner doorway, it is to be considered as a house having two rooms; if another portion of the cabin be also partitioned off in a similar manner, it is to be considered as a house having three rooms.

4. Neither uninhabited out-offices, nor houses in ruins, are to be included in this Return; but if an individual or family live in an out-office or any public building, it is to be considered as an inhabited house.

5. In houses where the ground story is used as a shop, if it be vacant, and the remainder of the house, or any portion of it occupied, the entry in Column 6 should be, "Inhabited; Shop vacant."

6. A distinction is to be drawn between houses occupied by one or more families as owners or tenants, and houses merely in charge of a caretaker; in this latter case the entry in Column 6 should be, "Inhabited by a Caretaker."

7. Wherever a school exists in any part of a house, it should be noted in Column 5.

8. Particular care should be taken to specify all houses now in progress of "Building."

On the occasion of his second visit, the Enumerator will be able to remedy any defects in "Form B," which, on examination, he may find in his previous entries.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

Form C.—Sick Return.

When collecting "Form A," or completing "Form B," the Enumerator is to inquire as to all persons labouring under sickness; and in houses where any one was ill on the 30th March, and the inmates are capable of filling it, he is to present "Form C," with a civil request to have it filled by the Head of the Family, if possible, at the moment Should it not be convenient to the family to fill this Form at the time of his visit, he will leave it,—and having made this mark (×) in the 13th Column of "Form B," in order to guide him in collecting these Forms afterwards,—he will call for it again at his earliest convenience. But when the inmates cannot do so, he will fill up "Form C" himself It is to be distinctly understood that sick persons are also to be enumerated in 1st Table of "Form A."

Form D.—For Lunatics and Idiots.

It is expected that the local knowledge of the Enumerators with regard to Lunatics and Idiots, for whom this Return is intended, will enable them to fill this Form with accuracy, especially with reference to vagrants and mendicants who are thus afflicted Where Lunatics or Idiots are in the custody of their friends, the inquiries necessary to fill this Form should be made with the greatest delicacy All these persons will of course have been enumerated upon "Form A," at their respective places of abode, on the night of the 30th March.

Form E.—For Workhouses.

The Enumerator will leave the requisite quantity of Tables Nos 1, 2, and 3, of this Form at each Workhouse, Auxiliary Workhouse, Workhouse Hospital, or other public Institution of a similar nature within his District, before the 30th March, and at the same time call the attention of the Masters, or Stewards of these Institutions, to the section of the Act of Parliament printed at the foot of the Form. He will at the same time remark to the Masters that sick persons enumerated in Table 2 of this Form are not to be also included in Table 1. The deaths which occurred in temporary Hospitals in connexion with Workhouses are likewise to be enumerated by the Master on Table 3 of this Form

Form F.—Hospital Return.

The required number of Tables 1 and 2 of this Form are to be distributed at all such Charitable Institutions as General and Fever Hospitals, Infirmaries, Lying-in, and other special Hospitals, and wherever persons are admitted for in-door treatment. The resident officers of all such Institutions, house-pupils, and servants, &c., are to be supplied with "Form A," and enumerated thereon by the resident head of the establishment.

Form G.—College and School Return

Colleges, Seminaries, and Boarding-Schools—and all educational establishments where the pupils reside within the walls—are to be supplied with this Form, and also with "Form C" when necessary. The deaths which may have occurred in such Institutions are to be returned on the third Table of "Form A," for which purpose a sufficient number of that Form is to be furnished to the head or registrar of the School or College.

Form H.—Barrack Return.

For Barracks, or other buildings where military parties may be stationed at the time. Where hospitals exist within the precincts of these establishments, the Barrack-Master is to be supplied with the necessary quantity of Tables 1 and 2 of "Form F;" but soldiers in Hospital are also to be accounted for on "Form H." The permanent officials belonging to, or residing within, all Military Barracks, as Barrack-Masters, Barrack-Sergeants, and Canteen-Keepers, &c., with their servants, as also all married officers, non-commissioned officers, and soldiers, are likewise to be enumerated with their families on "Form A," and when necessary, supplied with "Form C."

Form I.—For Lunatic Asylums.

All Lunatic Asylums of both a public and private nature are to be supplied with Tables 1 and 2 of this Form; and as there are generally Lunatics confined in Gaols, one or more of each Table is to be left with the Governor of every Prison where necessary, and these are afterwards to be attached to the "Form K" belonging to such Prison.

Form K.—Gaol Returns,

For all Prisons, Bridewells, and Penitentiaries; such establishments are likewise to be supplied with Tables 1 and 2 of "Form F" for their Hospitals; but the persons enumerated on these latter are also to be entered in "Form K." The officers and servants of the establishments, with their families, are to be enumerated on "Form A."

Making up the Returns

1. In rural Districts there should be one or more Returns according to "Form B" for every Townland, and the A and B Returns for each Townland are to be stitched together when completed.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

2. In corporate Towns the Municipal boundary is to be taken as the boundary of the Town, and the name of the municipal ward as well as the street in which the family resides, is to be entered on "Form A." Forms adapted for Towns will be issued where required. In all cases where a village contains more than twenty houses, the A and B Returns for it are to be made into a separate file. When a village does not consist of more than twenty houses, it is not to be noticed separately as a town, but the houses will be treated as others dispersed over a townland.

3 In towns which consist of more than four or five streets, there is to be one "Form B" for every street; and the A and B Returns for each street are to be stitched together, and all the Returns for the town put up in one parcel.

4. If any town or village be partly in one parish or barony, and partly in another, separate files for each portion should be made up. This rule is to be observed, in order that the Returns may be readily abstracted according to parishes and baronies.

5. Care must always be taken to make a distinct file for the rural portion of each townland apart from the town portion, in order to draw a line between the town and rural population.

6. In making up the "Forms A," they are to be arranged in numerical order, placing the "Form B" for the locality, at the top, and the Abstract, showing the number of houses, and of males and females, in the front of the file.

7. When collecting the Forms from public Institutions, the District Enumerator will make sure that they are all stitched carefully together.

8. As the various Returns are completed, they are to be handed over to the Superintendent of the District for examination.

General Observations.

If the Enumerator finds that he requires an additional supply of printed Forms, and that he cannot conveniently procure them from his Superintendent, or any Enumerator in his neighbourhood, he will, in order to save time, apply for them direct to the "Census Commission Office, 5, Henrietta-street. Dublin," stating the number and letter of the additional printed Forms which he wants, and the post-town to which they are to be forwarded.

In carrying the foregoing Instructions into effect, the Enumerators will take care to observe the utmost civility; the information sought is to be asked with gentleness, and by no means enforced by violent language or threats. It is to be remembered that all persons, at first, view inquiries touching themselves, their families, or their circumstances, with jealousy, in proportion to their want of knowledge of the results sought to be obtained by the Inquiries, and that there are comparatively but few persons so fully acquainted with this subject as to enable them to understand of what advantage it can be to the State to possess minute observation as to the social condition of any member of the community. Yet it is information of this character, when shaped into classified Returns, which forms the best guide to the Philanthropist and the Legislator in their efforts to improve the condition of mankind. If the Enumerator finds his progress obstructed by difficulties of the kind referred to, he should state them to the more enlightened and influential persons in his District, and request their aid in removing them.

Should any instance unfortunately occur in which every effort to obtain the necessary information shall prove unsuccessful, the Enumerator will make a detailed report of all the circumstances to the Superintendent of his District, who will forward it, together with his opinion thereon, to the Census Commissioners, stating whether he considers that under the circumstances a prosecution would be advisable; but in no case is a prosecution to be undertaken, under the provisions of the Census Act, 13 and 14 Vic., chap. 44, without the express authority of the Commissioners.

William Donnelly, Registrar-General.

I approve of the foregoing Instructions being issued to the Constabulary,

D. McGregor, Inspector-General.

Instructions for Enumerators of Shipping.

1. The general instructions with respect to Forms A, B, and C, given in Circular No. 3, (contained in the District Enumerator's Portfolio,) are applicable to the Enumeration of Ships and Boats of every kind, as also to their Crews and Passengers—"Form B, Ship Return," being analogous to the B Form for Houses and Buildings.

2. The Enumerator will leave one or more copies of "Form A," with the person in command of each vessel, previous to the night of Sunday, 30th March. Upon these Forms are to be entered the names, &c., &c., of the Captain and Crew; but when the Captain, Master, or any other Head of a Family on board is accompanied by his wife or family, they are to be enumerated on a separate "Form A." When leaving these Forms, the Enumerator is to make the necessary entries respecting the Vessel and its Occupants in "Form B, Ship Return," which entries he can verify and complete when collecting the "Forms A."

3. When leaving "Form A," the Enumerator is to enter the Registered No. of the vessel upon the back of the Form; but where boats or vessels have no register, he is to enumerate them consecutively, making the endorsement on "Form A" correspond with the number instead of the Register in "Form B, Ship Return."

4. The Enumerator will commence upon the 20th of March to fill "Form B, Ship Return;" and will also cause "Form A" to be filled for all vessels leaving Port between that date and the night of the 30th March, before such vessels go to sea. In vessels going to sea on or before the 30th March, all the passengers and the entire crew are to be enumerated in "Form A;" but where vessels remained in port up to the morning of the 31st March, only those persons who slept on board are to be entered upon it, as the other persons belonging to the ship will have been enumerated on shore. Vessels seeking temporary shelter in harbour from stress of weather, within the period above stated, except they happen to be there on the night of the 30*th March*, ought not to be enumerated.

5. All Ships, Coasting Vessels, fishing or other boats, which arrive in port on the 31st March and during the entire of the month of April, are to be enumerated in the same manner as vessels in Port on the night of the 30th March; provided such Ships or Boats shall not have been previously enumerated at any other port in Ireland; of which circumstance inquiry should be made.

6. In the case of vessels belonging to Great Britain, which have been enumerated at any other Port in the British Isles, it will not be necessary to enumerate them; but all vessels belonging to Irish Ports, no matter whether they have been enumerated or not in other Ports of England or Scotland, are to be returned on the Irish Forms.

I approve of the foregoing Instructions being issued to the Constabulary.

SIR,—With reference to paragraph 6 of Circular No. 3, under the head of "Form A," you will receive herewith a supply of "Form B, Ship Return," together with Instructions to Enumerators for filling it; and as this duty is more consonant with the general occupation of the Coast Guard, than collecting Returns for Inland Districts, it is expected you will be able to obtain a greater amount of assistance from that body than has been afforded for the General Census.

In case members of the Coast Guard within your District are not available for the duty referred to, you will select one or more men of the Constabulary Force, and in the event of the latter being otherwise occupied, you will, without delay, nominate one or more properly qualified Civilians, who are to be employed until the Constabularly shall have been relieved from the duties of the General Census. You will return, in duplicate, upon the enclosed Schedule, the names of the several persons selected by you for this duty, and forward them to this Office without delay.

Each Enumerator of Shipping is to be supplied with a sufficient number of "Form A;" "Form B, Ship Return;" and Circular No. 4, "Instructions for Enumerators of Shipping," together with a portfolio, and Circular No. 3.

On the next page is a copy of the Order from the Comptroller-General of the Coast Guard, together with the copy of a Letter to the Officers of that Force, from the Census Commissioners.

The Respective Inspecting Commanders, and Officers in Command, Ireland.

SIR,—I am desired by the Census Commissioners to request your attention to the foregoing Memorandum of the 26th October, 1850, from the Comptroller-General of the Coast Guard, and to forward to you the enclosed Copies of Forms which they have drawn up for ascertaining the number and condition of the Crews and Passengers, together with other collateral information respecting Vessels in Port in Ireland, for the period specified in the Instructions for Enumerators of Shipping, of which a copy is also enclosed.

A supply of these Forms and Instructions has been sent to the Sub-Inspectors of Police in charge of Maritime Districts, to be furnished by them to Enumerators of Shipping; and the Census Commissioners earnestly request you will afford every assistance in your power in perfecting this interesting branch of the Irish Census.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

The Officer Commanding the Coast Guard at 17th March, 1851.

SIR,—We, the Commissioners appointed by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to carry into effect the provisions of the Act 13 and 14 Vict., cap. 44, "for taking an Account of the population of Ireland," on the 31st instant, beg leave most earnestly to solicit your friendly co-operation in this very important object, by exerting your influence among the peasantry and the less enlightened classes in your neighbourhood, so as to remove any prejudices which may exist, and induce them willingly to afford the information asked for in the several Printed Forms, and thus facilitate the labours of the Enumerators. The great importance of these inquiries, and the universal interest expressed as to the results of the approaching Census of Ireland will, we trust, excuse us for soliciting your aid on this occasion. We need scarcely add that upon the fidelity of the returns will chiefly depend their statistical value.

A copy of "Form A"—the Family Return—is enclosed, in which, in addition to minute instructions for filling it, we have explained the object of the inquiries, and the purposes to which the information thus obtained will be hereafter applied. Forms for collecting information relative to Schools, Buildings of various kinds, and other subjects, have also been placed in the hands of the Enumerators, with copies of which, however, we do not at present consider it necessary to trouble you.

We have the honor to be, your obedient Servants,

CENSUS OF IRELAND, 1851.

CIRCULAR.

Census Commission Office,
5, Henrietta-street, Dublin,
10th April, 1851.

FORM L.—RETURN OF PERSONS RECEIVING INSTRUCTION AT ALL PUBLIC AND PRIVATE SCHOOLS, SEMINARIES, COLLEGES, ACADEMIES, AND LITERARY INSTITUTIONS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

This Table is prepared with the view of ascertaining the TOTAL NUMBER of persons of all ages and classes who were attending School, or receiving instruction at any of the Educational Establishments throughout Ireland, during the Week ending the 12th April, 1851. The Heads of such Institutions should be respectfully requested to fill this Form, and at the same time to observe, that it is not all the names on the Roll of the School which are required, but only the names of those Pupils who were in attendance during any part of the week specified. Schools within Workhouses and Gaols are also to be included in this Inquiry. Should his local knowledge not be sufficient, the Enumerator will, by referring to "Form B," know where to leave "Form L," which should be distributed as soon as possible. It is not, however, necessary to detain the other Returns of the Census for the completion of this Educational Inquiry

The distribution and collection of "Form L" is to be exclusively intrusted to the Members of the Constabulary.

FORM M.—AFFIRMATION OF THE RETURNS BY THE ENUMERATORS.

Each separate Form must be signed by the Enumerator; but it having been represented that it would be difficult to find Magistrates willing to give so much time as would be necessary to affirm each Family Return separately, a Form of Affirmation marked "M," will be supplied, which will include in one Declaration the Returns of each Enumeration District, and at the same time comply with the Terms of the Act of Parliament 13 and 14 Vic., Cap. 44. Superintendents should cause one of these Forms when accurately filled up by each Enumerator for his own Enumeration District, to be affirmed by him before a Magistrate and forwarded to this Office.

FORM N.—INVOICE AND INSTRUCTIONS FOR FORWARDING THE RETURNS TO DUBLIN.

As soon as the Returns of a Parish, or of all that portion of a Parish situated within a Constabulary District, have been received and examined by the Superintendent, "Form N" should be filled up in Duplicate and sent in a separate Envelope to this Office. All the Returns should be carefully packed, and forwarded by Post. Labels for the purpose have been printed and will be distributed. The County and Parish to which the Returns contained in each parcel belong should be entered on the left-hand corner of the Label. The Postage is not to be prepaid. In order to avoid inconvenience to the Post Office, not more than two parcels of 250 "Forms A,"—with the other Returns of the same locality,—in each parcel, should be forwarded from any one District on the same day.

As some delay may arise in completing the Tables of the Deaths from the Records of the several Public Institutions, it is not absolutely necessary that they should be forwarded along with the other Census Returns. A reasonable time may be allowed for their completion.

"Form B, Ship Return," together with all "Forms A" collected from Shipping since the 10th April, are to be sent back to this Office by the 5th May. In accordance with the instructions given in Circular No. 5, Civilians who have been engaged as Enumerators of Shipping, are only "to be employed until the Constabulary shall have been relieved from "the duties of the General Census."

Census Forms of every description, which have not been used, must be carefully returned to this Office.

WILLIAM DONNELLY, Registrar-General.

The attention of the Constabulary is directed to the foregoing instructions,

D. M'GREGOR, Inspector-General.

CENSUS OF IRELAND.

13 & 14 Vic., cap. 44.

The Collection of the Returns relating to the Enumeration of the Population of Ireland being nearly completed, the Census Commissioners most earnestly request every individual or family who may be aware that he or they have, by any accident, been overlooked in the General Enumeration, or with whom the necessary Census Forms may have been left and not again called for, to communicate the circumstance without delay to the nearest Police Station, or direct to this Office, when immediate steps will be taken to rectify the oversight.

It will greatly facilitate the correction of any omissions of the kind alluded to, if the present address of persons not yet enumerated be distinctly stated, and also where their exact abode was on the night of Sunday, the 30th of March.

The resident Nobility and Gentry, the Clergy of all denominations, the Magistracy, Professional Men of every class, Land Agents, Poor Law Guardians, and all other persons who may be acquainted with any such accidental omissions as those referred to, are also earnestly solicited to communicate the particulars of each case either to the nearest Police Station, or to this Office, in order that the enumeration of the people of Ireland may be made as perfect as possible

By order,

EDWARD SINGLETON, Secretary.

CIRCULAR.

Census Commission Office,
Dublin, 26th April, 1851.

FORM O.—RETURN OF EMIGRANTS AND PASSENGERS.

1. As the Enumeration of Shipping, Crews and Passengers, conducted in conformity with Circular No. 4, will terminate on the 30th instant, it has been deemed advisable, in consequence of the great emigration now in progress, and which will no doubt be much increased by Harvest Labourers proceeding to England and Scotland during the Summer months, to continue to record the names and condition of both these classes according to "Form O."

2. Superintendents, therefore, in charge of Districts from which Passenger Vessels depart, should immediately appoint one or more Enumerators from the Constabulary to attend upon the sailing of all such Vessels, and should also furnish each Enumerator with a copy of this Circular.

3. Enumerators are required to make a Return according to "Form O," for each Passenger Ship which may sail from any Port within their District.

4. In explanation of the sixth column in "Form O," it may be necessary to state that by "Temporary Emigrants" is to be understood these persons who purpose returning to Ireland within a definite period; and by "Permanent Emigrants" those who leave Ireland with the intention of settling in another country.

5. It may occasionally occur that a Vessel sailing from a certain Port within a Police District, will touch at some Port or place either within it or within another District, to take additional Passengers on board, or will receive them in boats from the adjoining shore; in such cases it will be the duty of the Officer in charge of the District in which such embarkations take place, to nominate Enumerators to be on the look out for, and to make careful Returns of all such Passengers and Emigrants upon this Form.

6. In Sea Ports where there are Government Emigration Agents, the Enumerators are hereby instructed to seek the advice and assistance of those Officers on all occasions where it may be found necessary.

7. The Returns of Emigrants and Harvest Labourers required by "Form O," are to be transmitted weekly to this Office until further instructions are issued on the subject.

WILLIAM DONNELLY, Registrar-General.

The attention of the Constabulary is directed to the foregoing instructions.
